Ambassador Learned German Viewpoint During Sojourn in Germany

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

(Copyright 1925 by the Post Pub. Co.)
Swampscott, Mass.—The revelation that Ambassador Houghton, American ambassador to Great Britain, is the "spiritual author" of the security pact being negotiated between Germany, England, France, Belgium, Italy and Europe generally is no surprise here.While Professor B. E. Schmitt of the University of Chicago who made the disclosure in his speech at the Williamstown Institute of Politics did not give details, the fact is the American ambassador has played an extraordinary role in the negotiations which concern the future peace of Europe.For more than two years Mr.
Houghton has insisted that Europe would not make any progress until first, reparations were settled and, second, a pact entered into between Germany on the one side and the allies on the other to assure peace and make possible a reduction of land armament.

KNOWS GERMAN STAND

As ambassador to Germany, Mr.
Houghton had occasion to learn the German viewpoint thoroughly and to render advice to the German government as to American public opinion.
It is recalled that when Ambassador Kellogg left London, to become secretary of state the appointment of Mr. Houghton to go to Great Britain immediately was decided upon.This gave Mr. Houghton his opportunity to turn to the other side of the security negotiations. Before he went to London, however, Mr. Houghton came to Washington and had extensive conferences with President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg.
On his arrival in London, Mr.
Houghton made a speech which was a sensation in diplomacy. It gave Europe some straight-from-the-shoulder advice on the extent to which American economic aid could be expected if Europe composed herself and showed a will to peace. This address was carefully prepared and had as its objective a strengthening of the movement to get a security pact ratified.

COOLIDGE BACKS PACT

Since Mr. Houghton's speech another significant address was made this time by President Coolidge on July 2, openly endorsing the security pact and hoping European powers would adopt it. The influence of Ambassador Houghton is seen in this case, too, for both President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg have great confidence in Mr. Houghton's ideas about the way to bring peace of Europe.At the moment, of course, the American ambassador's efforts are regarded as quite unofficial. Even his famous speech in London was said at the White House to have been

HOLD MILWAUKEE MAN
IN SEWER GRAFT CASEBy Associated Press
Milwaukee—Police are holding one man incommunicado in connection with irregularities in the city sewer department. It was announced Friday.
The police and other city officials refused to divulge the name of the man held for investigation, but it was indicated that irregularities which developed in the department several weeks ago resulted in arrest and conviction of two employees of the department are far reaching and will amount to a considerably larger sum than was anticipated.City authorities early Friday refused to discuss the situation declaring that the city and county attorneys were working on the case and announcement would be made later.UNIONS PLEDGE $28,000
TO MADISON LABOR BANKBy Associated Press
Madison—Pledges amounting to $28,000 from two unions were obtained at a meeting here Thursday toward the establishing of a labor bank in Madison. A committee of the local federation of labor announced it would solicit the aid of Frank Morrison, general secretary of the American Federation of Labor, in organizing the bank."DADDY" BROWNING DENIES STORY OF PARTY FOR GIRLSNew York—The story of 12-year-old Sylvia Mullen, that Edward W. Browning, wealthy Real Estate operator, had promised to adopt her, was denied Friday by Browning. He also denied the girl's account of a party Friday night with him and his newly adopted daughter, Mary Louise.Sylvia, who disappeared from her home Thursday morning returned in the small hours of Friday. She explained her long absence by saying that she had been the guest of Mr. Browning and Mary Louise at a party and then with flushed cheeks and sparkling eyes announced that "Daddy Browning" had promised to adopt her within two weeks.Meanwhile Mary Louise, driven to tears despite the luxuries she had enjoyed for just two days, frantically denied one rumor after another about her past life and parents. She especially denied stories that she had been engaged to several men, one a plumber's helper and another a dentist.14 DELEGATES

Here TuesdayAt least 692 delegates will attend the convention of the Republican

the national administration of President Coolidge, and who would like to see such an administration in the government of Wisconsin. The gathering will be held at the courthouse Tuesday.According to an announcement received here from W. J. Campbell, Oshkosh, chairman of the Republican executive committee, a great effort will be made at the Oshkosh session to agree on a single candidate for the office of United States senator, so that a man will be elected to the senate who will redeem Wisconsin in the eyes of the nation and stand back of President Coolidge. With this idea in view Mr. Campbell invites any and all candidates and prospective candidates to participate in the convention, stand on its platform and assist in agreeing on a single candidate.HOLD CHICAGO MAN IN

nary hearing August 20 on a charge of nection with the fatal injury of John Dooling Jr., Aurora, Ill., in an automobile accident here May 30. A juror's jury late Thursday held that whoever was driver of the auto in which Dooling was an occupant, was CONVICTED SLAYER DECLARED INSANE

Russell Scott, condemned slayer, escaped the noose Thursday for the third time when he was declared insane by a jury in a Chicago court. This picture was taken in the courtroom when hearings to determine his sanity got underway. Scott is shown at the trial table, behind Dr. Whit-ney Hall, famous alienist retained by the defense. The jury is in the background. Inset shows a closeup of Scott.

FORD BUYS METAL AIRPLANE PLANTAuto Manufacturer Will Devote Energies to Making Flying SafeDetroit, Mich.—Henry Ford, millionaire maker of autos, Friday became an independent manufacturer of all-metal airplanes, "for the purpose of accelerating airplane development."Official announcement was made Thursday night at the Ford offices that the Ford Motor Co. had purchased the Stout Metal Airplane Co. of Detroit, which will be operated as the Stout Metal Airplane division of the Ford Co.The amount involved was not given out, but was estimated to approximately $1,000,000 and credit for negotiating the transaction was given by Mr. Ford to his son, Edsel.The first thing that must be done with aerial navigation is to make it safe. Mr. Ford said in commenting on the sale. "Just now it's 90 per cent man and 10 per cent plane.
That percentage must be turned around.""We are not going into the racing business. Speed is incidental. Safety and service are paramount. What the Ford Motor Co. means to do is to prove whether commercial flying can be done safely and profitably."Mr. Ford's chief interest lies in the engineering problems involved in aviation. He has never been in the air and said Thursday he still felt no urge to fly.COMMONS VOTE FUND
TO BLOCK COAL STRIKEBy Associated Press
London—Having succeeded in getting a $50,000,000 appropriation, to prevent a nation-wide coal strike, the government turns its attention Friday to the commission which it promised to investigate the coal industry.
The selection of the members of the commission will undoubtedly be a matter of great difficulty.All the members of the House of Commons, except 16 and a handful of conservatives who abstained from voting Thursday night, endorsed the $50,000,000 pound subvention. The position had been generally accepted as inevitable under the circumstances but it was not expected that the vote in favor of the appropriation would be anything like 361 to 16.Former Premier Lloyd George and former Labor Premier, Ramsay Macdonald, were among those who found fault with the government's action.Mr. Lloyd George characterized the subsidy as nationalization in its worst form.U. S. ENVOY CLEARS WAY FOR COMMERCE TREATYBy Associated Press
Vienna—Through the excellent arbitration decision pronounced by Albert P. Washburn, American minister to Austria, the way has been cleared for the conclusion of formal commercial treaties between Jugo-slavia and Austria, the government announced Friday.In February, 1923, a board of arbitration composed of three members from each of the two countries affected, and Mr. Washburn as neutral president, met in Vienna to adjudicate disputes growing out of agreements for the reciprocal exchange of commodities and products between Austria and Jugo-Slavia following the armistice in 1918.Scott Will Expiate His Crime In Insane AsylumBy Associated Press Chicago—In an insane asylum, instead of on the gallows, Russell Scott, erstwhile Canadian financier, will expiate the murder of a drug clerk in a holdup."Cell shock"—insanity resulting from fifteen months in jail and the ordeals of two narrow escapes from the noose—was the verdict of a jury Thursday night in a sanity test which saved him.The jury's finding and Scott's removal to the Chester insane asylum Friday ended a fight for life that probably was the most desperate in Cook county criminal annals. Seven ballots and three hours and forty minutes deliberation were necessary before the jury agreed.

STILL FACES DEATH

Had he been found sane, Judge
David would have imposed a death sentence once more. Even in the asylum, Scott faces death on the gallows should he ever be found to have regained his sanity.Warned against a demonstration, spectators and principals greeted the verdict with a dramatic silence.
Scott's eyes never left the slip of paper the jury foreman passed to a bailliff who gave it to the clerk. His mouth twitched, nervously and he fidgeted. Judgement entered, he was hurried away by guards.His relatives heard the verdict with expressions of emotion. His wife, Catherine, leaned forward in an attitude of prayer. His mother wept and his aged and crippled father,
Thomas, stayed close to his son.

FATHER IS GRATEFUL

"Thank God for the verdict," the father said later. "That's what the poor boy needs is to be sent down there.""I knew it would happen," the wife said. "I have worked and prayed for this and have not had a night's sleep in weeks."Jacob Maurer, father of the slain youth, who attended each day of the sanity hearing, was disappointed.
"It's the law. But I didn't expect justice. My boy is gone. I find no consolation in the verdict.""It's shameful and disgraceful verdict," said Assistant State Attorney Harry F. Pritzger. "Scott is no more insane than any man in the room."
The verdict is a victory for the criminal element. They can take life and get away with it.The jurors in this case did not know the first principal of the law involved. "They're too ignorant."WAUWATOSA ALARMED
BY MYSTERIOUS BLASTBy Associated Press
Milwaukee—A mysterious explosion believed to have been a stick of dynamite set off in a field near Wauwatosa Thursday night caused caution of the police, considerable difficulty. A flood of telephone calls from the vicinity of the explosion brought investigation by the police who reported an area in the vicinity of John Frey's farm of about 20 feet indicate where the explosion occurred.
Several men in a car were in the vicinity of the explosion a short time before it occurred.FIVE ROBBERS LOOT held up the store and factory of Harry Bleiweis Co., manufacturing furrier, herded six employees into the basement and ransacking 16 pelt safes, escaped with furs valued at $100,000.The robbers gained admittance by posing as union workers. The employees were tried together in the basement and guarded by one man while the others calmly ransacked the safes in full sight of the crowded street.The loot was thrown into a waiting

NEWS OF MINERSPresident Invites Attorney General Sargent to White CourtSwampscott, Mass.—Late information as to the anthracite situation and other problems confronting the administration was sought Friday by President Coolidge from Attorney General Sargent, whom he had invited here for a conference.It was indicated Friday that Secretary Hoover, who will have a major part in shaping the administration's policies in the anthracite wage controversy which threatens suspension of hard coal operations Sept. 1, will come to Swampscott within a week for a conference with the president.Postmaster General New also is expected here shortly to discuss departmental matters.

HOPE IS REVIVED

Atlantic City, N. J.—Hope has been revived that anthracite scale negotiations may be resumed and a suspension in the coal fields in September averted.Samuel D. Warriner, chairman of the anthracite operators' conference, in a letter addressed to John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, and made public here Thursday night, said: "In spite of the terms of your letter and the breaking off of negotiations I am hopeful that means will be found to compose the differences between us and avoid suspension of production. Every consideration demands that this be done."Legion Endowment Drive Nets $1,500 On First DayAn incomplete report from 8 of the 21 teams working on the American legion endowment drive in Appleton shows a total of $1,500 raised the first day of the campaign by these few teams. The campaign for Appleton's share of $5,000 lasts until Saturday night, and it is felt at campaign headquarters that no difficulty will be encountered in raising Appleton's full quota because of the large amount reported by only 8 teams of the 21 for the first day's work.It was said Friday, at campaign headquarters that so far everyone was very generous in subscribing to the legion fund, probably because the unselfish and very worthy motive of the drive touched everyone's heart.
Cases are so few where the solicitors have been refused that they are almost negligible. Only one instance was mentioned where the person solicited refused flatly to give anything to the legion endowment.There are 21 teams soliciting for the endowment drive, and they were given their instructions at the banquet Wednesday evening which opened the drive. The teams are made up of a legion man and a citizen wherever possible and are paired as follows:William Roemer and Harold Kun-ort; Fred F. Wetzel and Harry Silvestri; Joseph Marston and George Wetzel; George Packard and V.
J. Whelan; James Ballet and Dr.
H. K. Pratt; George Dame and Am-

ard of Chicago, recently acquitted at Chicago of the charge of causing the death of his millionaire ward, Billy McClintock, by injecting typhoid germs in his food, was an Oshkosh visitor over Wednesday night on his way to the northern lakes resorts of Wisconsin. He was accompanied by his wife, accused in the sensational trial with being his accomplice, and a young woman who gave the name of Miss H. Bruche of Kansas City and who said she was a friend of Shepherds who was visiting them. The party spent the night at a local hotel, and departed Thursday in a costly automobile driven by a chauffeur.A Negro maid was with them.
Shepherd avoided newspaper men and checked out before he could be reached by a reporter.Miss Bruche acted as intermediary and said she was sure Mr.

would not be interviewed anyway.BOY ADMITS HE KILLED FATHER,
INJURED MOTHERMinisters's Wife, Seriously Wounded, Accuses Son of ShootingBy Associated Press
Parkersburg, Ia.—Warren Vandervoort, 17, Friday confessed he shot and killed his father, the Rev. R. J.
Vandervoort, Methodist Episcopal minister here Thursday night. James Mitchell, the Parkersburg, marshal announced Friday.The youth also admitted, the marshal said, that he shot and wounded his mother when she appeared in the doorway of the pastor's home, apparently to investigate the shot that killed her husband. Then he followed her into a bedroom and shot her again. The boy gave no explanation for the shooting. A coroner's inquest is being held.Mrs. Vandervoort accused her son of the crime. The boy was arrested.
Mrs. Vandervoort's only words since she was found about 2:30 Friday morning have been a moaned "Warren—he did it, he did it."Young Vandervoort was taken into custody at Reinbeck, Ia., about 2 o'clock Friday morning.The boy said "someone" had shot his parents and that the murderer then had forced him to take the family car and help the killer escape.
Residents of the community say they believed the boy had given too much time to study last year and to have added to the strain during the summer by preparation for college.Appearance of the man's body, and the bloodstains about the hall and bedroom indicated to the officers that the Rev. Vandervoort was shot in the right eye.Mrs. Vandervoort was shot above the right temple and in the cheek.
Empty cartridges were scattered on the floor, but the rifle is missing. Officers learned Friday morning young Vandervoort had bought the rifle at a hardware shop about 5 o'clock
Thursday.FRENCH DECIDE UPON
MAJOR DRIVE ON RIFFSBy Associated Press
Fez, French Morocco—Operations on a large scale, designed to bring the rebellious tribesmen to realization that further fighting is useless, are said to be ready for launching. General Naulin, in supreme command of the French forces in Morocco, and Marshal Lyautey, resident French governor of Morocco, have decided that the time is ripe to strike a decisive blow against the Riffians.The war load is showing no disposition to engage in official peace negotiations. There is little hope that peace can be effected in any other way than by a determined military move against the tribesmen.Rich

SHERIFF WON'T SELL PLANT OF TUBE COMPANY

Matter Involved Only Minor
Roofing Account — Good Progress Is Shown

The plant of the Seamless Tube Company of Wisconsin, a new manufacturing concern which is in the process of establishing itself in the former Reliance Motor Truck Company at Spencer st. on Sept. 14 as officially announced in a legal notice published by Sheriff Peter G. Schwartz, George J. Thust, the general manager, not only declares that this step will not be taken but that the financing of the industry is just about completed and that manufacture will be started soon on a reasonable scale.

Mr. Thust says the action by the sheriff was instituted by the Northern Corrugated Co., Green Bay, which placed a mechanics' lien on the plant because of a roofing account on which about $500 still was due. Payment was delayed only because the amount actually due the Green Bay firm had not been agreed upon. It is obvious, Mr. Thust says, that a plant inventorying $245,000 need not be auctioned to satisfy a claim of about $500.

Officers of the Seamless Tube Company of Wisconsin have been devoting considerable time and effort to preliminary work in establishing the plant here. A reorganization of the original company is taking place and in two weeks this and the required financing will be taken care of, Mr. Thust says. Then matters will move right along as the plant can get into full operation. The sheriff's sale in effect is having no effect whatever on either the present or future operations of the industry or on the plans that are being made, the manager states. Negotiations were taken up at once to adjust the differences with the Green Bay concern regarding the account.

made of his own initiative, but the hope was expressed that it would assist the situation. There was no word to indicate that because it was a personal or individual effort that it was any less recorded by the president.

HOUGHTON HAS FREEDOM
And that's the situation today. Ambassador Houghton has the freedom that unofficial and informal diplomacy gives him, to do all he can to bring Europe to agree on a peace pact. Curiously enough, the United States is not to be a party to the agreement and it follows a principle laid down in the Monroe doctrine to the effect that the United States is concerned with the preservation of peace in this hemisphere and that Europe should safeguard its own peace by mutual agreements.

American policy has been defined as likely to interfere in European affairs only when American rights are invaded as in the submarine warfare of 1917. Otherwise it is a policy of hands off physically, but this is not construed as preventing the United States from lending moral support to any effort to secure peace, especially from former foes. Quite a lengthy reference to the necessity of reconciling former enemies was made by President Coolidge in his Cambridge speech of July 3, all of which was intended to uphold Ambassador Houghton's hand in his informal efforts abroad.

If the American ambassador should succeed, more probably will be disclosed about his efforts just as when the Daves commission went abroad the government was cautious about any governmental connection. After the mission succeeded the Washington government did not hesitate to give it full support and even take credit for its accomplishments.

STAPLE TAKEN FROM THROAT OF KIMBERLY BOY

Henry Langenberg, 7, of Kimberly has decided that his mouth is not intended as a receptacle for wire staples, having had one removed from his throat here Thursday. The child was operating a stroller on the sidewalk in front of his father's home Thursday afternoon and had put a half-inch staple in his mouth for "safekeeping." He fell off the stroller and the staple slipped down his throat. Feeling that all was as it should be, the child rushed to his mother and was taken to Appleton, where the sharp wire was removed.

The points were upward and the operation was quite painful, but aside from being unable to eat solid foods for several days and experiencing difficulty in making himself heard, the boy is recovering nicely from his accident.

NO SUCCESSOR YET TO SAECKER ON BOARD

Routine business was transacted at the monthly meeting of the Appleton vocational school board Thursday. The next regular meeting will be held the first Monday in September, but it is possible that a special meeting will be held before that time in order to fill the vacancy created on the teachers' staff by the resignation of Miss Christine Dohr who has accepted a position in the Racine vocational school. No successor to the late Herman Saecker, president of the board, has as yet been appointed by the board of education. Judson G. Rosebush, vice president, is serving as acting president in the meantime.

ONE MINER KILLED, ANOTHER IS BURIED

Bessemer, Mich.—One miner was killed and another buried in two dirt falls at the Tilden mine here early Friday morning when a stope on the eleventh level gave way.

Adolph Stencher, 29, was caught in the first fall and the second one occurred before fellow workers could reach him. Sylvio Gulliani, buried in the fall, was still alive at 9 o'clock Friday morning and able to communicate with rescuers who are frantically digging in an attempt to save him.

STABILIZATION CURBS GERMAN EMIGRATION

Berlin—Stabilization of currency has acted as a check on German emigration. During 1923 Germans who left to establish homes in other parts of the world numbered 115,000, while in 1924 the number dropped to 57,000. North America still is the favorite destination of the emigrants.

Temporary Injunction Throws
Another Obstacle in Way of

A temporary injunction restraining George E. Peotter, city building inspector, from issuing a building permit or permit of occupancy for work on the proposed campsite of the Kiwanis club at Bellin's corner on W. Prospect-ave until the matter is fully settled, was signed by Theodore Berg, municipal judge, Thursday at the request of Frank Peotter and W. F. Bellin, property owners, between whose homes the buildings for the grounds were to be constructed. Peotter was given 20 days to petition that the injunction order be vacated. When his petition is filed a hearing on the petition will be held before Judge Berg.

PLACE A NUISANCE

The temporary injunction was based on two important points, that the camp grounds at that place was a nuisance, and that the city council cannot legally grant a building permit. If the city building inspector grants the permit, the matter can be taken to the zoning board of appeals, the injunction states after this board has made its decision only court action can change it unless the zoning board is amended by the city ordinance as amended by the city council is not by a resolution such as was used, the injunction said. The injunction also denied that the campsite was a nuisance, but the campsite is a charitable proposition. It defines charitable as something that is the object of charity and states that tourists do not fall in this class. Alderman Mark Catlin is alleged to have stated that such was the case in his argument for the site at the session during which the city council overruled the zoning board of appeals' decision in the matter.

The three-fold dispute between the common council, zoning board of appeals and the protesting property owners, with the Kiwanis club playing a somewhat passive role, was the subject of much comment on Appleton streets Thursday and Friday. Reports were current to the effect that some of the members of the appeal board intended to resign, but they were not verified. Dr. E. W. Cooney, secretary, denied he had any intentions of resigning. Attorney A. H. Krugmeier, president, was out of the city Friday.

ACTION UNFAIR
"While I have no intentions of resigning," said Dr. Cooney, "it seems to me that there is not much use of having a board of appeals if the common council takes the board's prerogatives away from it. I consider it unfair of

PLANES SCOUT FOR NEW BASE ON ARCTIC FLIGHT

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C. — Planes with the MacMillan Arctic expedition planned Friday to fly from Etah, Greenland, over Smith sound to Ellesmere island in the hope of selecting a suitable base about half way to Cape Thomas Hubbard on Alex Helberg island, where the advance flying base will be located. A water lead is opening in the ice of Smith sound between Etah and Ellesmere island.

Tests with the planes Thursday showed them loaded too heavily and rearrangement of the cargo was made necessary. Lieut. Commander Byrd, in command of the navy section of the expedition, in a radio dispatch sent Thursday night to the navy department, told of the activities of the fliers, and reported the failure of the engine on the No. 1, one of the three planes carried north. A new engine was put into the machine.

"The men with me are tireless," he said, "and knocking off work until near midnight. A midnight flight over Smith sound Thursday night disclosed the fact that a water lead is opening up in the ice between here and Ellesmere island."

GRANT APPEAL TO MAN WHOSE CAR KILLED BOY

Menominee, Mich.—Arthur Vandenberg, who was found guilty of negligent homicide by a jury here Thursday night, was granted an appeal Friday to the state supreme court by Judge R. C. Flanagan, before whom he was tried on a charge arising out of the automobile accident on June 29, that was fatal to Paul Carlson, four-year-old son of the Rev. and Mrs. Herman Carlson of this city.

the council to override the board after listening to only one side of the case.

Failure of the park board to permit the use of Albia park as a tourist camp this year was the reason for the Kiwanis club's offer to lease the Fred F. Wetzel property at Bellin's corner and erect temporary camp buildings with private subscription. The board refused the club's permit of occupancy after the neighboring property owners protested against the camp. The reason for the denial of the permit was that the zoning ordinance does not allow tourist camps in residence districts, according to the interpretation of the appeal board members. Several council members argued that the Kiwanis camp could be permitted on the ground of its being a philanthropic institution, and this prompted the council to order the issuance of a temporary permit of occupancy.

YOUNG FORGER IS GIVEN YEAR AT GREEN ABY

Albert VanAlsten Is Punished for His Operations at Kaukauna

Albert Van Alsten, 17 year-old Little Chute youth, charged with forging checks amounting to $50.75 at four establishments, was sentenced to one year at the Green Bay reformatory when he was arraigned before Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court Thursday afternoon. The youth pleaded guilty to the charges when arraigned earlier in the month but was bound over for sentence pending further investigation of his case by the court. This step was taken because of his age.

Using checks of the Bank of Little Chute for his operations, which started on Monday July 21, Van Alsten cashed checks amounting to $20, $9.75, $11 and $20 at an Appleton bank and several Kaukauna stores and a hotel in this city. He was arrested by Detective-sergeant John Duval after several clues had been traced down.

Mrs. John Stark, 720 N. Clark st., submitted to an operation Thursday morning at St. Elizabeth hospital.

DICKINSON ONE UP ON HAYDEN AT EIGHTEENTH

Billy Sixty Leads Manchester
With Semifinals at Halfway Mark

By Associated Press
Milwaukee — Playing over a heavy rain-soaked course at the Milwaukee Country club, noon found Billy Sixty, Milwaukee, one up on Morgan Manchester, Maple Bluff, Madison, at the end of the first 18 holes in their division of the semi-final matches in the state amateur tournament here Friday.

Neither player was more than one up at any time of the morning play. Manchester proved strong on his chip shots and the pair played fairly even on the tee, although Sixty was a bit ahead of his opponent on drives.

The players were all square on leaving the seventeenth. On the eighteenth green, Manchester conceded the hole after Sixty's putt had laid a partial symple and Manchester's ball struck Sixty's.

Manchester missed an opportunity to get one up on Sixty on the first green when he missed a two foot putt on his first attempt. Sixty had trouble in downing his putts.

The cards:

Sixty, out—444 445 525—38.
In—545 344 364—35—76.
Manchester, out—444 454 634—38.
In—464 345 455—40—78.

DICKINSON LEADS

The second pair was a bit late in arriving at the eighteenth green. They were all square on the seventeenth, but the morning round ended with K. S. Dickinson, Appleton, one up on Eddie Hayden, Milwaukee. From the seventh-enth tee Dickinson outdrove Hayden, who landed in the rough. Hayden's second was short of the green.

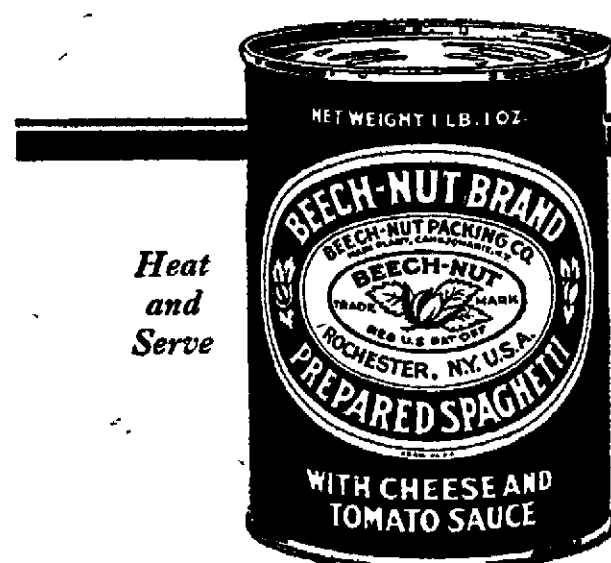

Dickinson's ball got on the green on his second. His approach putt was about 18 inches from the cup, while Hayden's was six feet away. Hayden missed his next putt, and he was one down to Dickinson. Dickinson twice was one up on Hayden up to the tenth tee, but they were all square after leaving the tenth green. Neither was more than one up at any time. Dickinson missed several short putts and his opponent's putting did not measure up to his former matches in the tournament. Both were long at the tee.

The cards:
Dickinson.
Out 546 345 534—39.
In 455 345 464—39—78.
Hayden:
Out 545 354 534—40.
In 545 365 355—41—51.

For breakfast, have oats and milk.

Quick Quaker cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. And that makes it easy. No hot kitchens. No fuming, no frying, no stewing.

Start on oats tomorrow. Note how good you'll feel. Mark the way that dragged-out feeling goes.

RAISE THE TAXES A LITTLE HIGHER

Senator Cashman, Blaine appointee as regent of the University of Wisconsin, repented the decision of the board of regents made about a month ago, accepting $12,500 presented by the Rockefeller Institute, a philanthropic organization, to the state university for medical research work. No strings were attached to the gift. It was an out-and-out donation for a specific purpose, the relief of suffering humanity.

Mr. Cashman argued that Rockefeller money was gained through questionable business practices, that it is not needed in Wisconsin. "That the soul of the University of Wisconsin is not for sale," whatever that may mean, and that somehow or other the acceptance of this money by the university would put it under some sort of moral or other obligation to teach students to worship at the golden calf of Baal.

Upon Mr. Cashman's strenuous protest against the acceptance of this money, the Board of Regents by a vote of nine to six declared that "no gifts shall in the future be accepted by the University of Wisconsin from incorporated endowments or organizations of like charities," but ruled that the $12,500 would continue in the treasury. Presumably this $12,500 was earned by Mr. Rockefeller in some of his good moments, perhaps raising persimmons, but anyway in a manner not obnoxious to the tender sensibilities of Mr. Cashman and his associates. Of course, our far-seeing board of regents can tell at a glance whether money is tainted or not.

The fight of the Blaine appointees on the board of regents against the Rockefeller gift typifies the sort of emotional and hence, impractical, government that we have had at Madison for nearly four years past and the kind that we may reasonably expect in the future under the same administration. Assuming that Mr. Cashman is right in his declaration that Mr. Rockefeller amassed a fortune by questionable methods and carrying his theory to the only logical end, the Rockefeller gold must eventually be incased in iron boxes and dropped in Davey Jones' locker two thousand miles from shore where the "roarin' forties" hold perpetual sway. It must never be permitted to do any possible good, even by relieving the tax-burdened farmers or workers nor the struggling and sometimes tottering industries of Wisconsin, nor in the search for a cure for cancer and other humanitarian work.

The Rockefeller Institute, armed with the millions given it by Mr. Rockefeller, has been a militant pioneer in all medical research work, in smoothing everywhere the troubled brow of care. When earthquake and pestilence, when flood and conflagration have reared their horrid heads, and misery and famine and woe and want have stalked in their wake, the Rockefeller Institute has given millions directly, and what is more practical, sent scores of doctors, nurses and supplies for the relief of those in distress. Would Mr. Cashman have a sentinel standing at the row of hospital cots to protect the injured and maimed from the taint of Rockefeller money?

All public institutions, the university included, are supported by taxes. Some of the money paid in the form of taxes comes at times from persons who have not always followed the straight and narrow path. If the Cashman logic is good, by what right does the state take money in the form of taxes from such people? Is not the tax paid by the bootlegger tainted money? Why then accept it? Mr. Cashman must know that the constitution of Wisconsin provides that all funds paid into court for violation of penal laws go into the school fund. From this source, millions of dollars have come from panhandlers, thieves, thugs, pickpockets and their ilk. The money has helped erect schoolhouses, pay teachers and educate the youth of the state. It must be that the fathers who framed the constitution wanted "to sell the soul of the school." We have never seen any indication that the use of this tainted money has harmed our citizenry. But now, of course, we must desist the practice, change the constitution and return the money.

And here, indeed, is a fine field for the Blaine regime to set up another commission and appoint a few more political friends to $5,000 jobs that they may make constant inquiry and investigation into the pedigree of every dollar going into the state treasury. We must be pure in Wisconsin whatever the cost. We must be poor too, but mighty proud.

Wisconsin has no better investment than its University although it costs a large sum each year to support it. In the past, the board of regents has accepted donations of large amounts resulting in a relief to the taxpayers to that extent. Since 1909, some $225,000 has been paid to the University by the Carnegie Foundation to assist it in paying and pensioning teachers, thus securing a higher grade of talent to instruct our youth. Large gifts have also been accepted from Vilas, Pabst, Vogel, Armour and other public spirited men of wealth. But this must stop. The taxes are so low in Wisconsin that the people are crowding in to pay these amounts themselves. The public wants to pay and pay even if it hurts. Our Super-Progressives believe that if a man has wealth the only way to punish him for having it is to make him keep it and the only way to make the rest of the people happy is to make their taxes so burdensome that they won't have time to think of anything else.

Wisconsin needs some practical men not to coin meaningless phrases about the sale of souls, but to understand that whatever purpose money has been put to in the past or however it may have been acquired, its use for public educational purposes or for the relief of the unfortunate is, nevertheless, good.

Some day Wisconsin will recover from the political fever that has ravaged it so sorely under the Blaine rule. Some day it will put into responsible public positions builders and not idlers, thinkers and not loose talkers. Then, blessed with all its wonderful natural advantages and sturdy citizenship, it will reap the fine prosperity that naturally belongs to it and that it is now discarding for the sour and empty husk of foolish class strife foisted upon it cleverly and audaciously by those who spin not but talk much.

A STRIKE—PERHAPS

The failure of the anthracite miners and operators to reach an agreement is discouraging, but not hopeless. It follows the rule that has applied in most conferences of this character. The men have asked for increased pay, and the operators wish to reduce the pay. It is a controversy in which the public is not competent to pass judgment. We do not think the president of the United States, who has had his eye on the negotiations continuously and who perhaps has more information at hand than any other person, is prepared to pass judgment. News reports indicate that he will seek additional information from members of his cabinet and other sources before he intervenes, if indeed he intervenes at all.

The president is hopeful that an agreement will be reached, and the probability is that it will be reached. Between now and September we shall have a great amount of talk about the certainty of a coal strike. We should not let this disturb us unduly. It has happened before, and while there have been strikes there have also been settlements, and conditions today are, we believe more favorable to an amicable understanding than they have usually been in the past.

Health Talks

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author.

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writers' names are never printed. Inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for diagnosis or treatment of individual cases cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

FAT AND HEALTH

Skinny readers will give me credit for having said nothing at all to speak of in the past few months about fat folks. God bless the latter. Some people have a curious notion that I am sarcastic. Neither affirm nor deny, but when it comes to basting, burning, blinking sarcasm, my hat's off to the skinny old maid who has just read a trifling compliment to a fat woman. The poor fat woman has comparatively a short time to live, according to the life expectation tables of the American casualty experience, or something like that—ask any insurance agent for particulars—and the skinny one, to make matters worse, is scheduled to remain with us forever and, yet, she goes just wild whenever I say a pleasant word to her fat sisters. And believe me, good people, she wears letters which I take to pattern after when occasion arises for a mean, dirty crack at something or somebody. A young man wrote me yesterday that he obeyed a master of sarcasm, and would I kindly publish a few remarks about the deplorable habit of open-faced sneezing. His father being an offender in that respect but a man of inexplicable faith in everything I taught. I'll bear that in mind and review some of these letters from skinny females when the sneezing season opens.

Nightly, fewest persons, the particularly concerned about the effect of obesity upon health, at the time they are busily engaged in accumulating the slacker flesh. Not very many of them give the minor consideration of health much thought even after they have commenced experiments with soap, salts, lemon juice, sweat baths and mail-order specialists. But about the time they get all these diversions paid for and settle down to the plain if painful realization that the way to reduce is just the reverse of the way one acquires the superfluous about not taking any chances with injury to health, "I am willing to do anything," they write, feelingly, "anything at all. I'm desperate. Send on your No. 1 Symphony or your Somersault course or anything you can suggest, that is, without any risk to my health."

Well, that is natural enough, after all. Few of us begin to feel particular regard for our health until we have good reason to believe we have lost a good bit of it.

If skinny folk were just a wee bit less peevish I could get off a few smarting remarks about the fatuous notion that somersaults or symphonies can reduce fat. Certainly I have never intimated that these pleasant pastimes would reduce weight or anything like that. To my mind it would be about as ridiculous for a fat person to use Dr. Hokus's Reducing Soap or Selma Sokem's Bath Salts in the fond hope of entering a beauty contest as it is for such a person to play the No. 2 Symphony or join the Somersaultauqua with such an object. The morning and evening rolls are rather a test—if you can roll yourself over a door over the bare floor you are young. The No. 2 Brady Symphony is merely a fifteen-minute daily treatment to keep you young.

If you have some reducing that positively must be done, that's another story entirely. Maybe the Karell regimen will help the work along. But I do not advise that indiscriminately. Do not ask me for any advice or instructions about reducing, unless you give in your letter these data: Your age, height, weight, title and address. Then if I think you should try it, and you haven't forgotten to send a stamped, self-addressed envelope, I may forward the instructions, but I do not bind myself to do so in any case.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

No Booze Cure

I am informed that you offered to send any one a formula or medicine for dip-somania. I would like to have your remedy. (L. L.)

Answer—I have no formula or remedy of that kind. In fact I can assure you that anything purporting to be a cure for alcoholism is a humbug. If the alcoholic victim desires to be treated for his condition, there are methods which may assist him toward recovery from the disease, but the administration of such treatment is always an individual problem which requires individual medical care, whether the patient be treated at home or in some institution. I have seen some abandoned bums restored to sobriety and industry by the simple method of treatment given to the medical profession fifteen or twenty years ago by Dr. Alexander Lambert. This method is not secret and not more expensive than any other medical treatment, and any good doctor can administer it successfully anywhere. I should be glad to give your doctor a reference to Lambert's original contributions on this subject, but I can give no detailed information about it to laymen. Any notion of curing the dip-somania secretly or without his own cooperation is unworthy of a moment's consideration.

Q. What is a spinning mule? S. M. D.

A. A spinning mule is a machine of exceedingly complicated organization by means of which cotton or wool, or other fibrous material, is spun into yarns for use in the manufacture of cloth. It spins a great variety of yarns simultaneously, winding them into "cops" as fast as they are spun, and its various operations are performed entirely automatically. In its action it approximates with interesting closeness the procedure by which formerly a yarn or thread was spun by hand with the aid of the old-fashioned domestic spinning wheel.

Q. Which nation has produced the greatest short story writers? N. W.

A. No one is in a position to say which nation has produced the greatest short story writers. Russia, France, England, and the United States are noted for literature of this class. The French regent Edgar Allan Poe with special esteem and some of the French critics credit him with being "the father of the short story."

World's News Told In Brief, Simple Style

BY CHARLES P. STEWART

President Coolidge knows of no law which enables the government to prevent a coal strike—like the one threatened in the anthracite field—by taking over the mines and running them. So a "presidential spokesman"—which usually means the president himself—is quoted as saying, in dispatches from Swamscott.

The "spokesman" is quoted further to the effect that some such thing might be done—presumably extralegally—to prevent some "tremendous national calamity," but the "spokesman" didn't seem to think an anthracite strike would be as bad as that.

A good many householders may think otherwise. Most likely the "spokesman" is aware of this.

If he can't do anything else, at least he can call congress together in a strike does "break" and ask to have a law passed. Unless the mine owners and employees get together, that seems the most probable solution.

The British government has found a different method of avoiding the coal strike in England which threatened to begin Aug. 1. It undertakes to subsidize the mines for the next nine months, putting up the money to keep the workers' pay at its present level if the companies can't afford it.

Premier Baldwin hadn't any doubt that the strike would have been a "tremendous national calamity" in his country. It would have tied up the railroads, most manufacturing and so aggravated an almost unbelievable state of unemployment as perhaps to have led to a revolution. It isn't an altogether satisfactory way out of the government's difficulty, however, for its estimated cost will cost the treasury $50,000,000 and the treasury is in no shape to spare it. Many people think it's the first step toward government ownership of the mines.

ABD-EL-KRIM

Abd-el-Krim, leader of the Moroccan rebellion against France and Spain, has put an embarrassing proposition up to the League of Nations. He asks the league to interfere in his country's behalf against the French and Spanish attempt to destroy its independence.

It's a specious plea, to say the least—with self-determination and consideration for the right of small peoples among the league's foremost principles.

"But," point out France and Spain, "another of the league's principles is the preservation of old boundaries."

"Yes," argues Abd-el-Krim, "but the Rif—my country—is now established as a distinct sovereignty. I established it. Its boundaries may now be considered as old boundaries and I want 'em respected."

Whether the league "decides" to grant a hearing to Abd-el-Krim, as he demands, or disregard them, as France and Spain demand, it places the standards of international morality it created itself to perpetuate.

In the meantime Abd-el-Krim continues to fight like everything.

CHINA

China appears to have settled down to a long fight against foreign exploitation, with general strikes and boycotts as its weapons. There's also been a certain amount of physical violence—more or less instigated by the foreigners, in the hope of putting the Chinese "in bad"—but it's incidental.

WHAT IS INSPIRATION?

It is a curious but significant fact that as a rule the greatest writer is most reluctant to claim that he is "inspired" when he does his work. The poetaster talks glibly of "inspiration" but as likely as not the great poet will deprecate the suggestion that there is anything occult or mysterious about his work.

Is there any such thing as "inspiration"? As is so often the case, the answer to this depends on what one means by the word. The way it is often used by transcendentalists, we get the impression that inspiration has nothing to do with the intellectual quality of the mind of the person inspired—that some vague cosmic power might as well have selected a halfwit as his medium to give his poem or his drama or his novel to the world.

COLERIDGE INSPIRED

But a less mechanical conception of inspiration is that it is a functioning of the subconscious mind of the person "inspired" and hence of course is dependent in part on the quality of that person's mind, on its intellectual content. Modern psychology has been talked about "inspiration" for thousands of years. Modern science has not explained "inspiration" but it has knocked some of the transcendentalism out of the idea.

That writers have been "inspired" from time to time is quite clear and has been known ever since literature began. It is quite sure for instance confering with the president recently, declared for a $300,000,000 tax cut next winter. Chairman Martin Madden of the House appropriation committee, confering with the executive committee still more recently, goes Curtis $50,000,000 better.

Tax cutting is going to be the Republican keynote at the next session of the national legislature.

MYSTERIOUS POWER

The vital element that the "perspiration" people overlook is "inspiration." In effect they deny its existence, but nothing is more certain than that there is a mysterious mental electricity, whatever name it is called by, that is responsible for more or less great literature and other great art than all the "perspiration" advocates have wiped it completely.

PAVING AGAIN BEGUN ON BLACK CREEK STREET

Paving on highway 15 on the main street of the village of Black Creek was started Thursday by the Garvey-Weyenberg Construction Co. of this city. The paving had been held up since Monday by the building of culverts. At short stretch on the west half of the street beginning at the north end of the village had been completed by Thursday night. Traffic on the highway through the village has been completely shut off at a culvert on the south end of the village, but travelers from the north can pass down the main street until within a block of the north end of the village before turning off to the right onto the detour. The road is very rough, however.

Clyde Cavert and F. F. Martin will return home Friday from Madison, where they attended the summer session of the University of Wisconsin.

CHARLES HOLMES PAYS VISIT TO FRIEND HERE

Charles L. Holmes of Waterbury, Connecticut, accompanied by his son Fred who has just graduated from Yale, departed Friday after a brief visit in the family of Mrs. Peter Dane. Mr. Holmes was a resident of Appleton during the early days of the Manufacturing Investment Co. enterprise, now the "big sulphite" at the east end of John-st bridge, and it was in this city that he found his first wife, Effie Dane. Mr. Holmes and his son are on their way home from an automobile drive across the continent and back. They made the westerly journey from Waterbury to California in two weeks, camping by the wayside each night. They took the Lincoln highway, and diverged to visit Lake Tahoe and to enter Yosemite valley by the eastern road over Tioga pass.

They also visited Gen. Grant park and then worked their way north to Portland and thence to Spokane, the distance from Portland to Spokane, more than 400 miles being made easily in one day over a magnificent boulevard. For the remainder of the way they followed the Yellowstone trail quite closely, finding all kinds of roads, both good and bad, but made 225 miles a day over the worst they encountered which indicates that the way could hardly truthfully be called extremely difficult. Mr. Holmes is president of the Waterbury Trust Co., and heavily interested in Waterbury's daily newspaper.

HOLD EVANGELICAL CONVENTIONS AUG. 10

The thirty-first annual convention of Evangelical League of Christian Endeavor and the tenth annual Sunday school convention will be held Aug. 10 to 14 at Lomira. Alice Koss and Gladys Rabebl will attend as delegates from the Evangelical league of Emmanuel Evangelical church and Wilmer Grimmer and president of the Waterbury Trust Co., and heavily interested in Waterbury's daily newspaper.

Irene Schmidt will represent the Sunday school. The name of this institution is the Lomira School of Religion and Methods, and its purpose is to bring together for training the potential leaders of churches and to help deepen and enrich their own spiritual lives and to inspire a vision and to develop a purpose for service. The special training course consists of 12 course units, 10 lessons each, one-third of which is specialized study in the work of some department of the Sunday school league, Women's Missionary society or vacation or weekday church schools.

WAUPACA BOARD ORDERS 600 FT. OF WALKS BUILT

Business Men on W. Union-St.
Petition City Council for Oriental Lights

Special to Post-Crescent
Waupaca — Several matters of minor importance were transacted by the city council at the semi-monthly session on Tuesday evening. The greatest amount of discussion arose over several petition and remonstrances received from residents of Lakeside regarding the construction of a sidewalk, a distance of about 100 feet from the Rice residence to the corner occupied by Clyde Taylor.

By a vote of the council it was found that the entire body was equally divided on the matter. The mayor then put the question directly to the aldermen, when a vote of 5 to 3 was recorded to compel the owners to build. Alderman Chas. Nelson objected to the vote, on grounds that a majority of two-thirds was necessary in these cases. The mayor however gave Nelson six days to prove his claim or let the motion stand.

The petition of the residents of W. Union-st requesting the sprinkling of that street was granted. A sum of $251.00 was appropriated to pay for the new emergency unit which has proven satisfactory. Business men on W. Union-st between Main to Division-sts presented a petition for ornamental arch lights for that street. The petition was referred to the street lighting committee.

Work was started Wednesday on the two-story front of the men's furnishing department of The Fair store owned by John Hebbewhite of this city. A well designed modern upper story will replace the old type that has stood for many years. When finished the building will be a duplicate of the building front next door to the south occupied by the firm of Budding and White.

Special to Post-Crescent
Weyauwega — Lightning destroyed the barn on the Albert Winters farm, town of Land, about one mile west of this village at 6 o'clock Wednesday morning.

The farmer and his wife put their efforts to saving the stock. Some of the cows had fallen down. One horse was instantly killed. They succeeded in getting all of the cows out and the other horse which was stunned.

All of the hay and grain except two loads of oats, which were in the field, were destroyed.

INCREASE FIRE PROTECTION AT BROKAW HALL

Ruined in Fire Are Being Rebuilt

A number of new safeguards from fire are being put in Brokaw hall, Lawrence college dormitory for freshmen, which is undergoing extensive repairs made necessary by the $17,000 damage incurred in the disastrous fire which swept through the north section of the building June 3.

More fire escapes will be provided for the building and these will all be iron stairs rather than the more hazardous iron ladders formerly used for some sections of the building. Two large new skylights directly over the corridors of the fourth floor will give much better light to the whole fourth floor. Fire hose of a modern type will be installed in the space formerly occupied by the clothes chute.

The fire completely ruined the north section of the fourth floor, and the third floor, of this section also was badly damaged. The fourth floor north section will be entirely rebuilt over. Rooms all over the building were damaged from water and smoke, and are now being replastered and redecorated. Six addition single rooms have been built in the hall and a new parcel post room has been built on the first floor. The floors are being sanded and linoleum is being renewed in places. A steam heat main is being laid from the college heating plant to Brokaw hall.

Other improvements are being made on campus buildings in preparation for the opening of college, Sept. 22. The porch on Ormsby hall, girls' dormitory, has been given a new coat of paint and all woodwork on the outside of the chapel is being painted.

Two new class rooms are being built in the basement of Main hall on the east side of the building. The basement window space is being enlarged to permit more light to enter these rooms. The space utilized for these classrooms was formerly occupied by the college carpenter shop. The basement of Ormsby hall annex has been fitted up for the new carpenter shop. Cement sidewalks through the campus have been renewed in spots where they were sunken and badly cracked and split.

VETERAN CAN'T WAIT FOR U. S. TO GIVE HELP

Legion Tides Sick and Wounded Over "Red Tape" Period, Says Pettigrew

"America's future lies in the hands of the American legion, those men who gave the most in time of need, those who were tried and not found wanting in the severe stress of war," declared Capt. Henry J. Pettigrew, speaking in behalf of the American legion at the banquet of campaign workers Wednesday evening in the French room of the Conway hotel, when the opening gun was fired for the $5,000 legion endowment drive in Appleton.

Capt. Pettigrew said in the course of his talk, which was the principal speech given at the banquet, that he had done a great deal of legion work in Outagamie county and in Wisconsin, but that never before had he been engaged in any legion work as unselfish in its purpose as is this endowment drive, now being launched in Appleton. The legion was formed shortly after the war for just such a purpose as it is now trying to accomplish, that of helping disabled comrades, war widows and orphans, he said.

PLEDGED TO HELP
When the legion was formed shortly after the war the pledge of the organization was to help out comrades whose lot during and after the war had been unfortunate, and who were unable to help themselves. This pledge of mutual helpfulness was extended to include children whose fathers had fallen on the battlefields so that these children might not be deprived of their fair chance in life because their father sacrificed his life for his country, said Mr. Pettigrew.

The speaker explained that the legion was founded by sincere men who realized the nation would be facing problems in the reconstruction period, such as the rehabilitation of disabled soldiers and caring for war orphans, problems which the federal government would almost necessarily be at a loss to cope with. He remarked that many people have asked him why the federal government does not take care of its disabled soldiers and the children left fatherless by the great war. He explained in his speech that while the government has made some provision for taking care of disabled soldiers, that the work of the legion is needed, in addition to the government efforts, as the legion is more sympathetic in such cases, and government aid is often very long in coming. Furthermore, government aid is only given to those men who were disabled while in actual service. The thousands of cases of sickness and disease among former service men, which have been results of being gassed, shell shocked, or injured, are not given aid by the government unless the man became disabled while actually in service. It is these terrible after-effects of war which get no help except from such an organization as the legion.

DESERVE HAPPINESS
"Innocent children and widows of soldiers who paid the supreme sacrifice for country, should not be allowed by citizens of this land to live anything but a normal, happy life," exclaimed Capt. Pettigrew in speaking of this country's duty to war orphans and widows. If these war orphans are not placed in the home of a healthy, happy American family, but are allowed to be put in asylums and institutions the American people are making them pay an unjust price because their father sacrificed his life for America.

"A legion man does not want charity and should never be placed in the position where he is forced to ask for charity," declared Capt. Pettigrew. "All he wants is his just dues—a chance to make an honest living."

In speaking further of the children of fallen veterans Capt. Pettigrew urged the necessity of educating and teaching these children to respect the government their father gave his life for. If they are not given the proper education, and not given their proper chance in life they will grow up to hate this country for depriving them of their father, and for not giving them a chance for an education after that.

The legion is trying to place these children in good American homes, said the speaker. Until a home is found for a child, he or she will be placed in American legion billets, community homes where pleasant surroundings will be provided. Children living at these billets go to the public schools and churches, the same as other children of the community, and are cared for by a house mother, usually a war veteran's widow. The billet is made up of a small colony of cottages, each of which house about nine children and a house mother. The American legion does not intend to stunt the growth or development of a war orphan by placing the child in an asylum.

Capt. Pettigrew concluded his address by saying that everyone who was human would admit this legion endowment drive to be the most unselfish movement ever undertaken in the city of Appleton. He urged the committee to go out and get enough subscriptions to go way over the top in the legion drive in Appleton.

Art In Cemeteries Is Idea Of University Pro

Madison—Art in finding its way into cemeteries, Prof. W. H. Varnum, of the University of Wisconsin department of applied arts, finds in his investigations. Professor Varnum says that a remarkable change is appearing in the cemeteries and on memorial stones of America as a result of the efforts of memorial designers to incorporate art in design. Personalized memorials with simple symbolic lines and cemeteries that are parks will result from the present trend in commemorative design, the professor predicts. He is preparing a reference book on art in commemorative design.

"We are trying to get away from the lack of beauty of the older cemetery monument," says Mr. Varnum, "by eliminating the unnatural looking granite block with heavy base. Monument experts are trying to make cemeteries more like parks with memorials that harmonize with nature."

"Memorials in the future will be personalized. Line, rather than elaborate floral design, will characterize the deceased person. Successful scientists' memorial, for example, should be a slim obelisk, showing the successful termination of a strong life that has led in one direction."

"The youth's memorial would likely be tapered but not pointed, so as to suggest an abrupt ending of a young life. It would be of lighter material and with a small base."

A mausoleum, Professor Varnum says should be simple in line and set apart from the surrounding memorials so as to give it an adequate setting.

The over use of elaborate floral design has been due in part, Mr. Varnum points out, to the cheap process of sandblasting. The former demand for huge blocks of granite has been due, in part, he adds, to the effort of dealers to give as much for the money as possible.

"Cemeteries should be parks in which the stones are screened by shrubbery and appearing to the visitor in a setting not as a big outdoor stockroom of memorials," says Mr. Varnum.

"In many cemeteries now the authorities are formulating and enforcing regulations as to the design and size of memorials and causing their height to correspond to the immediate surrounding topography."

ings purely localized affairs and giving the people a chance to work out their own programs. Many of the schools attempted this last year.

Schools still desiring outside speakers at the meetings will be supplied from a list compiled by Mr. Meeting and Mr. Amundson upon application. The list contains the name of the speaker, his subject and when he will be available. The two county officers believe that a program "of their own" in each community will be more valuable than the work of outsiders.

KOHLER RESIGNS FROM "U" BOARD OF VISITORS
By Associated Press
Madison — Resignation of Walter Kohler, of Kohler, as the regent appointee on the University of Wisconsin Board of Visitors has been announced. No action has been taken on its acceptance.

FORSAKEN HULK IS REMINDER OF PLEASURES
Relics of the old days in navigation in this part of the state are recalled to the minds of local rivermen, who have followed that life for a number of years, by the hull of the old steamer "Paul L" which is lying in the canal known to the old timers as "Blast Furnace canal". The old boat, once a favorite excursion boat on the Wolf river, was brought to Appleton by the C. R. Meyer Construction Co. of Oshkosh, when that firm was to start work on the new bridge.

It had been condemned for some time and all of the superstructure and upper deck trimmings had been removed. The Meyer company intended to use it in the work on the bridge, but this was found to be impossible because of the railroad trestle near the new structure, and it was laid half-filled with water and slowly rotting ever since. In its day the boat was known for its speed. What the Meyer company intends to do with the old excursion boat is not known.

How "Missing" Hammers the Power Line

A CONTINUOUS rain of blows is exactly what poor motor fuel—stubborn-firing and power-shy—inflicts on your motor.

It misses frequently—and each miss sends its shocks through every part of your power line. It raps the piston in the missing cylinder. It takes a crack at the wrist-pins, jolts the connecting rods and sledgehammers the crank shaft. Clutch and transmission get their slam in turn, and by the time that torque rod and differential have hurled it on to the rear axle, as likely as not a second and third "miss" are drumming their destructive tattoo along the same line. No mechanism composed of so many joined-together parts can stand such a continuous rain of unnatural blows without permanent injury.

Wadhams 370 True Gasoline

protects your motor. No rank adulterant of kerosene and free carbon hampers its eager power delivery. It is real gasoline of the old-fashioned kind. It is sure firing. It does not stagger or miss. In every way its steady use is the very consummation of pleasant, safe motoring.

NAMED YOUTHS AS BURGLARS OUT OF SPITE

Herbert Peters Absolves Wing Brothers of Leeman Store Thefts

Another grudge went unsatisfied Thursday morning when charges against Leo and Earl Wing, town of Maine youths, accused of robbing the Ben Mills general merchandise store at Leeman on the night of June 30, were dismissed by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court. Herbert Peters, the other member of the alleged burglar trio, who was the cause of the arrest of the two Wing boys, pleaded guilty and admitted the innocence of the other boys whom he had implicated because of a grudge. Sentence in his case was deferred until Aug. 17.

The three youths had been arrested by Sheriff P. C. Schwartz on July 6 after Peters had admitted the burglary and had given the means of the Wing boys as his companions in the venture. The Wing brothers denied his allegations and stuck to their denial all through the affair. The boys were placed in the county jail under $1,000 bond by Fred V. Heilmann, county judge and acting municipal judge during the final illness of the late Judge A. M. Spencer, and were to appear for sentence on July 21. However, with no judge in office on that date the trial was delayed.

Meanwhile a further investigation showed proofs of the innocence of the Wing boys and several persons were found who could testify to their presence at other places at the time burglary was supposed to have taken place. Upon this evidence John A. Lonsdorf, district attorney, asked for their dismissal Thursday morning and after a short quizzing Peters admitted his guilt and said that the Wing boys were not with him at the time of the robbery. He said that Ben Mills, proprietor of the burglarized store, had told him it would "go easy with him" if he "squealed." In the process of "squealing" he had brought in the Wing boys, because of an old grudge and thinking to take some of the glamor from his lone crime if three were implicated in the robbery.

MAY DROP PLANS FOR LAKE SUPERIOR DRIVE

Superior — The proposed plan to build a scenic drive along the south shore of Lake Superior in Douglas co. will be abandoned if the Douglas co. board, scheduled to meet Aug. 20, at Superior, approves of a decision of the state highway commission. The commission favors relocation of the lake shore road as a state trunk highway to another road several miles south of the lake shore.

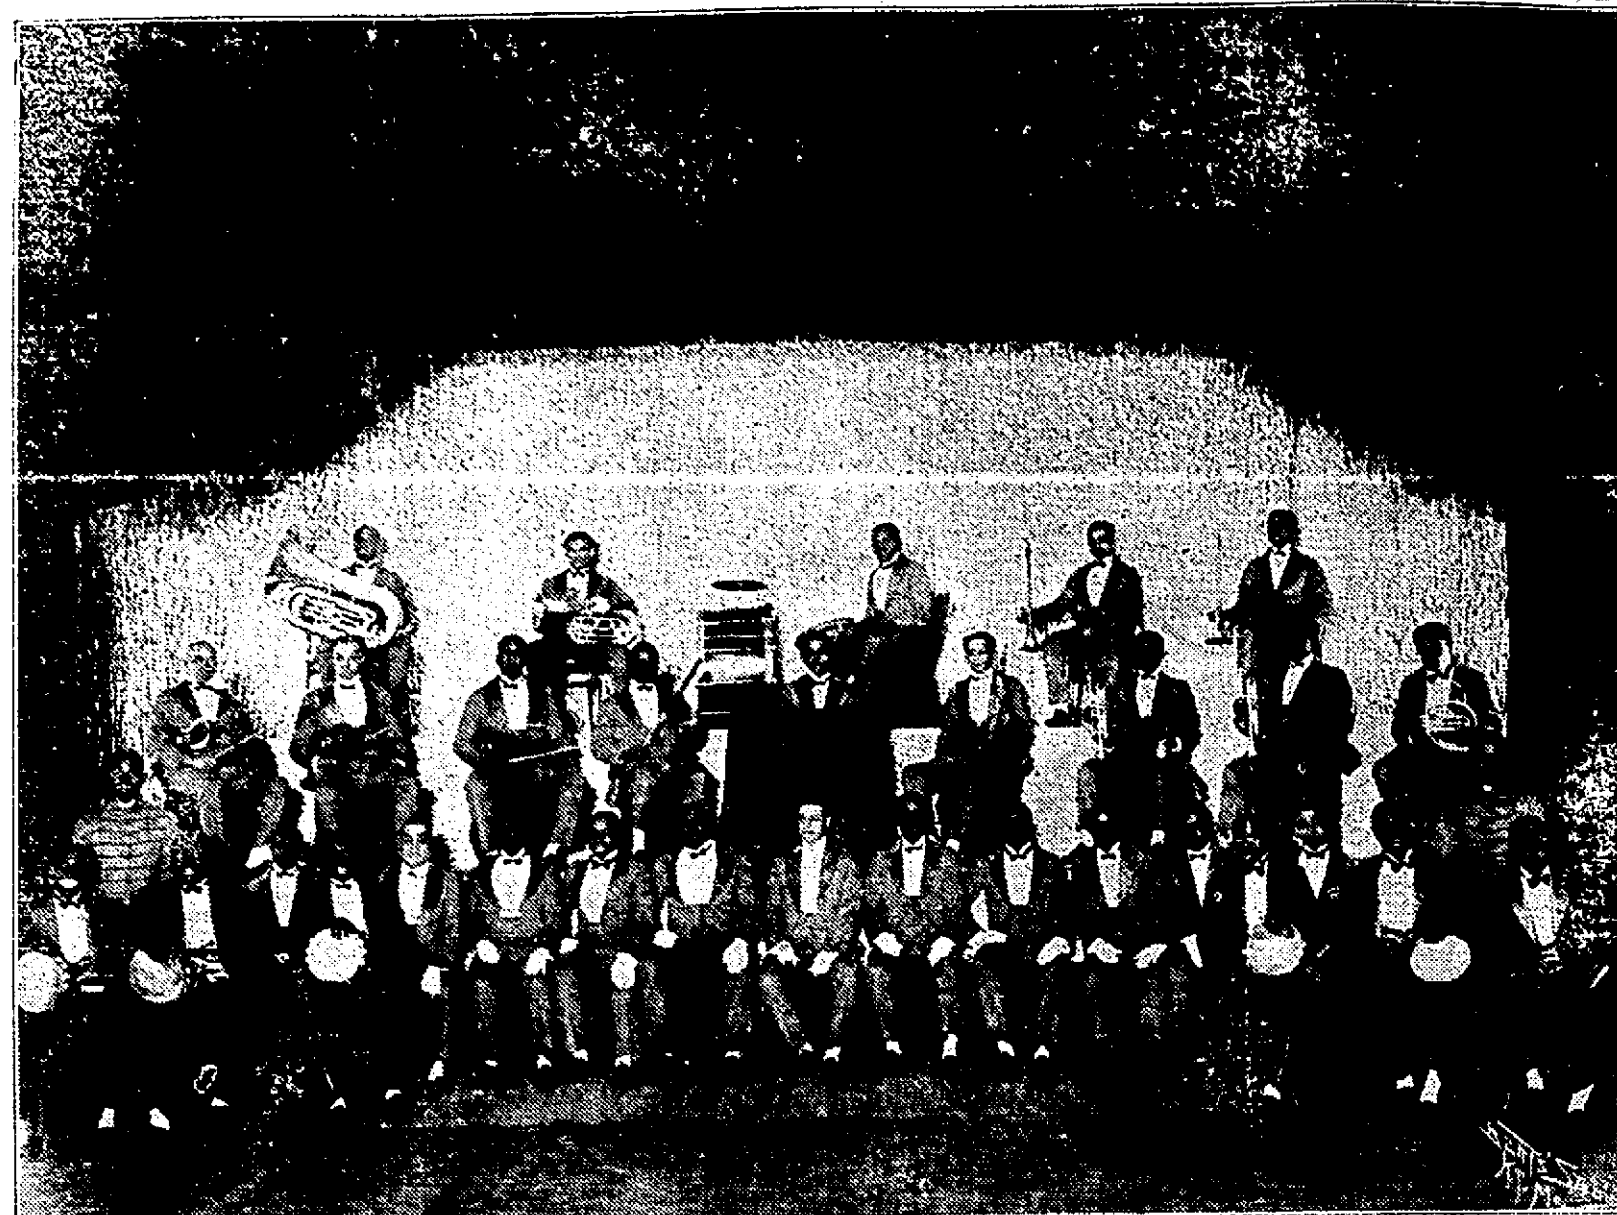

Civic clubs of Superior are opposed to the change advocating immediate construction of a scenic drive. Farmers in the northeastern part of the county want the road relocated to the main road penetrating the farming district. This would result in additional improvements being made to the road to the south, known as state highway No. 13.

The decision of the state highway commission followed testimony taken at a hearing in Superior on May 2. It is understood that the commission considered the cost of a scenic drive along the shore of Lake Superior too great to be undertaken at this time.

FREES MAN WIFE SAID FAILED TO SUPPORT HER

Michael Diderich, 404 W. Foster-st., was freed Thursday morning by Judge Theodore Berg in municipal court when he appeared to answer to the charge of failure to support his wife. The court ruled that there was no cause for action.

Diderich claimed that he had given up his home and property to his wife and child, a high school student, but still she had brought action. He stated that he would be more than willing to see the child educated and would contribute to its support. He had thought, however, that when he had given up all his property and home to his wife and moved out that this would take care of their support, he said.

CHILTON PASTOR RESIGNS CHURCH AFTER 34 YEARS

Reformed Church Had Healthy Growth Under Leadership of the Rev. W. A. Arpke

Chilton.—The Rev. W. A. Arpke, pastor of the Reformed Church of this city for 34 years, announced his resignation Sunday to take effect Sept. 1.

Under the Rev. Mr. Arpke's leadership the Reformed Church has had steady growth. About four years ago very substantial improvements were made especially in the shape of a commodious basement in which many church socials have been held.

The latest church improvement was a high class pipe organ which has added much to the enjoyment of music lovers of the community, who on several occasions have had the opportunity of hearing well known artists.

Mr. and Mrs. Arpke will for the present continue to reside in Chilton. Walter Roethke, Milwaukee boy, arrived at the home of his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. August Roethke, where he will spend the remainder of his vacation.

Attorney Leo P. Fox is in Oshkosh on legal business.

Mrs. George Steudel and Mrs. Anna Osthoff autoed to Neenah Wednesday to visit Mrs. Walter Kroshnik, who is a patient in the hospital there.

Mrs. F. J. Egerer is in Stevens Point, where she is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Arthur C. Kingston.

Miss Ella Roethke is spending the week in Milwaukee. On her return she will be accompanied by Miss Hattie Fegmeyer of Milwaukee, who will be a guest at the home of Miss Roethke's parents, Mr. and Mrs. August Roethke.

Mrs. Joseph M. Stuppick of Green Bay is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Steffes.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clark of Chicago are guests at the home of Mrs. Anna Grof and Arthur Mortimer.

Dr. Frederick Knauer of Kiel was in the city yesterday on professional business.

tention from the first flash and will appeal to all ages and classes. It is told in a simple way and maintains all the quaint and picturesque manners and customs of the period in which the story was written.

ELINOR GLYN'S NEW PICTURE HAS EXTRAORDINARY CAST

If you want to see a picture full of love and intrigue, don't miss Elinor Glyn's Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, "Man and Maid," which opened at the Elite Theatre yesterday and is showing for the last time today.

Madame Glyn has psychology at the tips of her fingers and knows how to put her theories over on the screen as well as she does in her writing.

She offers for our approval a new leading woman Harriet Hammond.
Miss Hammond is an ethereal blonde,
and gave a beautiful performance of the heroine role—Alathia.

Lew Cody astounds one as the hero and makes one hope he will never play anything else but parts like that of Sir Nicholas Thomonde from this time on.

Renee Adoree is brilliant in the role of Suzette. Her scintillating personality will long be remembered, as will the gentleness and sweetness of Alec Francis in the role of the hero's valet.

Others in the cast whose work stands out are: Paulette Goddard, Crawford Kent, Jacqueline Gadsden, Carrie Clark Ward, Dagmar Desmond and Jane Mercer.

The settings are worthy of extra mention, each one unique and for the most part extraordinarily beautiful. The time is at the end of the war. The place, Paris.

Victor Schertzinger directed under Madame Glyn's supervision, and Chat Lyons was the photographer.

"URIAH'S SON" NOW SCREEN THRILLER

Another widely read magazine story will be shown on the screen
when "The Necessary Evil," a First National attraction, comes to the Elite Theatre, Saturday and Sunday.

This is an adaptation of Stephen Vincent Benet's story, "Uriah's Son," which appeared in the Red Book. Benet is one of the foremost magazine writers of today, and in this story he has done what many consider his best work.

"The Necessary Evil" is the story of a stepfather and stepson contesting for the love of the same girl. A remarkable story is woven around the working out of this problem. Ben Lyon and Viola Dana are co-featured, supported by Frank Mayo, Gladys Brockwell, Thomas Holding, Marty Thurman,
Arthur Housman and Betty Jewel.

THRILLING STORY MADE INTO PICTURE

David Smith, who has won an enviable reputation for directing big films in which animals play an important part, has achieved another triumph in "Black Beauty," which will be shown at The New Bijou theatre today and Saturday. It is a visualization of Anna Sewell's famous novel which has been translated into every language and after forty years still maintains a place among the world's best sellers.

Many magnificent and spectacular scenes have been made for this production, including a stirring fox hunt,
a spectacular fire in the stable, a terrific storm in which a bridge is swept away, a gorgeous ballroom scene and a thrilling race between horse and locomotive.

The picture is one that will hold at-

BURGLARY OF TWO GARAGES IS ATTEMPTED

Safe Is Hammered at Ford Garage—Window Tried at Another

Kaukauna—Two Kaukauna firms got off lucky Thursday night when a burglar or gang of burglars operating here left jobs unfinished and departed without getting a cent from either place. The firms were the Ford Garage Co. and the Kaukauna Auto Co. Wisconsin Ave. At the Ford garage the burglars entered through a back window in the repair shop which had been left open. After they had hammered on the combination of the safe for some time and were unable to get it open they departed without taking a thing. The hammering was the only trace left of the attempted burglary when the garage was opened Friday morning. At the Kaukauna Auto Co., a glass cutter was used on the window in the back door, but evidently the intruder was scared away before he could cut through the glass and open the door. Traces of the cutter were found on the glass Friday morning. Kaukauna police were unable to uncover any definite clue Friday morning although a suspicious looking car was said to have been parked near Park school until 3 o'clock Friday morning.

LEGION RALLY WINS TILT 6-3 FROM THILMANY

Tailenders Spring Surprise on Fast Stepping Mill Team

Kaukauna—The tailend American legion baseball team showed real class Thursday evening and defeated the fast stepping Thilmany outfit in a twilight league battle. The score was 6 to 3. Stegeman, who occupied the knoll for the papermakers, was off form and his offerings were clubbed heartily for a total of 11 bingles. Bill Hass, moundman for the winners, was nipped for eight clouts, but good support by his mates kept him out of hot water during the exhibition. The legion presented the best line-up it has had this season and started right out in the first game to coin the tallies. Hass' lead-off march was safe when Stegeman threw wild from third. The next two batters came through with singles and after Rieth tied out to right field the next two men also singled, shooting over three counters. Rieth was robbed of a hit by Lizor's circus catch. Not satisfied, the legionnaires annexed two more buttons in the third chapter on Rieth's single. Royal Stegeman's error and Harold Stegeman's wild heave to first. Engerson made a startling running catch of Osh's long drive between short and second, thus robbing the batter of a safe blow. Engerson open his half of the second for Thilmany with a double into left field and scored when Lizor sent a Texas leaguer into right. A batter hit and two singles brought in another for the million. They were trying hard to score but each time runners were put on the paths Hass tightened up and retired the batters or was saved by sterling support. Osh scored the last run for the winners in the fifth frame when he was hit with a pitched ball, was safe on second when Losy dropped the pill after tagging the runner out and scored on Wilpolt's line drive over short. Thilmany tallied in the last round and put two more runners on the paths. Harold Stegeman opened the session with a single. Royal Stegeman won a pass and the former scored when Leddy dumped a hit in the right garden just back of the infield. With two on, Engerson died out to Brenzel at third after working the pitcher for three balls. Hass fanned seven Thilmany batters, hit two and walked three men. Stegeman sent down seven batters and hit one batter.

BARBERS CAN DO ALL BUT MARCELLING HAIR
Madison—Barbers and cosmeticians can share the work of improving the appearance of their patrons, without fear of encroaching on their respective duties, as a result of confirmation in the courts of the new beauty parlor law, the state board of health has announced. This, it was stated, means that a long controversy apparently settled.

Both barbers and beauty shop operators may bob, shampoo, singe or scalp of any person, under the regulations. Barbers cannot curl or marcel hair, however, and beauty shop operators are forbidden from shaving a man or cutting his hair. The law passed by the recent legislature was tested and sustained in Milwaukee when two barbers were fined $25 and costs for marcelling and curling hair without a beauty parlor license.

The new regulations require manicurists in hotel lobbies, office buildings, and similar places to hold manicurist's licenses, for which an annual fee of $2 is required. The fees are paid to the state health board, which supervises the work, particularly in enforcing the sterilizing of instruments.

PROGRESSIVES OF LEFT WING WAIT FOR ACTION
Milwaukee—Leftwing Progressives or that faction of the Progressive party in Wisconsin opposed to the policies of Governor John J. Blaine and the formation of political pacts between the state administration and Progressive candidates for the office of United States Senator, will make no announcement of their position in regard to the senatorship until after Governor Blaine issues the call for the special election, E. J. Gross, leader of the leftwing Progressives said Thursday.

"When Governor Blaine makes his expected announcement concerning the date of the election, the leftwing Progressives will hold a conference and decide what will be their stand on the question of the senatorship," Mr. Gross said. "I know of no meeting being planned before that time."

New London—E. P. Laugesen of Rhinelander, formerly a well known local business man, returned to this city on Wednesday, where he spent that day and Thursday visiting with his daughters, Mrs. Charles Remick and Mrs. Robert Finger, after a two months' stay in Denmark. When interviewed on Thursday, he gave an interesting report on conditions in general in that country, which is his fatherland, as he came over to this country when but a young man. "I had not been in Denmark for many years, as I came to the United States when I was a young man, and since then I have made my home in this country," said Mr. Laugesen. "I resolved before I left that I would see everything there was to see, and I did. I visited the largest cities in the nation, including Copenhagen. Naturally, being a business man, I observed business conditions in the country. I found them to be quiet in general."

MERCHANTS PROGRESSIVE
"In some ways," Denmark equals this country in its methods of doing business. For example, the merchants over there pride themselves upon their splendid way of decorating their show windows, believing that a good window helps a business along to a large extent. Their windows really are well and artistically decorated, and can compare with any of ours. They have no department stores over there. Each store is an exclusive affair, as a rule, only one line of goods, or centering on one class of merchandise. As a general rule, prices are about the same as they are here. There are exceptions, however, such as the prices which are charged for laundry."

"There are good steam laundries in the country, but they are all exorbitant in their prices. They charge over a dollar for washing a shirt. Their tobacco is terrible. They make a sickish mixture of their own, and have some, which is almost as bad, shipped in from France. Denmark is no place for a person who has his special brand of tobacco, and insists on having it. Why, I couldn't even get anything fit to smoke."

"Yes, they have plenty of automobiles over in that country," said the traveler in answer to a query. "A tremendous amount of Ford, and some Buicks. But they haven't anything that will do a hundred an hour."

ODD TRAINS
"Their trains are altogether different from ours. Their coaches, which they call wagons, are all built with doors opening into them from the sides. They are divided up into single compartments, which they call coupes. Each traveler has his coupe all to himself. No chance to be sociable. When they want to take tickets, the conductor runs along a little plank on the side, and sticks his head in each coupe, to see if there is anybody so small that you wouldn't imagine in it. The locomotives are real small, they would be powerful enough to pull a train. The trains run on tracks much narrower than ours in America."

"The Danes have a very beautiful country, but a poor climate. It was terribly cold and rainy while I was there. Each family tries to beautify its home by planting shrubbery and flowers around the house. They have the most beautiful flower gardens in the world, all enclosed by well groomed hedges. This, combined with their picturesque lakes which dot the entire country, makes it a very beautiful land."

"The crops this year are tremendous. The ripening grain, standing in the fields, can be seen for miles, and everything is ideal for one of the greatest harvests that the country has ever seen."

Mr. Laugesen is now a man well along in his sixties, but he is hale and hearty for his age. He was in the hardware business here 18 years ago, and has a large number of friends in this city. He is now in the retail clothing business at Rhinelander.

IN ACCIDENT
The Anton Baer family are recovering from wounds and bruises sustained when their Ford sedan collided with a Willys-Knight car two miles north of this village Sunday night on their way home from Wisconsin Rapids.

The accident occurred at about 10 o'clock. Glaring lights were given as the cause, as other cars were following and caused drivers to be blinded. The occupants of the Baer car were: Mr. and Mrs. Anton Baer and their son, Michael, of Hilbert, who was driving, and Miss Winifred Thiessen of Brillion. Mr. Baer suffered slight bruises, Mrs. Baer's collar bone was broken, Miss Thiessen was killed with a slight head injury, while Michael escaped luckily without injuries. The Ford sedan was badly damaged. Occupants of the Green Bay car, driven by Charles A. Nackard, were not injured but the car was slightly damaged.

A 10-pound son was born Wednesday to Mr. and Mrs. Edward Voligt, and a daughter was born the same day to Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Schmidtkofer.

WANT ARTERIALS
Since the new law has gone into effect that any village council has the power to designate any state highway as an arterial highway, the village board at Hilbert, meeting on Friday night will possibly designate highways 57 and 114 as arterial and put up the stop sign at the corner of Main-st.

This is a very dangerous corner on account of buildings being close to each side of the street and drivers not being able to see an approaching automobile coming from either north or south on these two state highways.

Chapter 211, passed by the legislature, empowers villages and cities to declare the Ringling Bros. circus with the same identity of state highways as arterial highways and to compel vehicles to come to a full stop before crossing them, to control traffic devices and also to provide for one way traffic wherever necessary.

COUNCIL DEFERS PAVING PROJECT IN CLINTONVILLE

Special to Post-Crescent
Clintonville—All bids for paving of Brix-st were rejected and the paving project was deferred until next year, according to action of the common council at its meeting Tuesday evening. EDITORS GIVEN JOVIAL SENDOFF ON STATE TOUR

Chamber of Commerce Gives Banquet and Starts Motorcade Off With Tour of City

Wisconsin Press association members and their wives, whose automobiles wended their way into Appleton from all directions Thursday afternoon for the fifth annual tour of the state, spent a jovial evening at the Chamber of Commerce hotel and then left for their respective homes.

Talks were given both by Appleton men and some of those connected with the association. Mayor Goodland welcomed the visitors and described some of the accomplishments of the city. John A. Kuyper, editor of the Journal-Democrat, De Pere, who is president of Wisconsin Press association, gave the response. Wilbur W. Johnson of Appleton Post-Crescent advertising staff spoke on retail advertising cooperation and W. W. Rolands, "Brownie," the Milwaukee Journal's tour editor, also voiced a word of greeting. The banquet in the Crystal room of the Conaway by the Fullinwider trio of Lawrence Conservatory of Music, and by J. E. "Sunny Jim" Miller, trombone soloist with Wisconsin Press association band. Community singing was led by Carl McKee.

MAKE STAY HERE
The editors registered at the hotel late in the afternoon, attended the dinner and then the guests of Louis Lutz, manager of Fischer Appleton theater, at the second evening motion picture performance there. They assembled again about 8 o'clock Friday morning and were conducted on a sightseeing tour by the convention committee of the chamber of commerce and members of Appleton Advertising club. Capt. F. J. Vaughn, acting chief of police, headed the motorcade in the police cars.

Cars were lined up for the trip at Conaway hotel and the visitors were taken up W. Prospect-ave by way of Oneida-st. They were shown Pierce park, they were taken over Cherry-st bridge and east to St. Elizabeth hospital. Going by way of S. Oneida and E. South River-sts, they were given a glimpse of the industries along the water power and entered the north side by way of Johnson bridge. The tour was taken on Union-st to E. Wisconsin-ave, back on Meade-st to E. College-ave, then west past Lawrence college and through the business district. They left by way of N. State-rd and highway 18' for Waupaca, the next stop. The journey will include Stevens Point, Shawano, Rhinelander, Green Bay and several intervening points and will occupy the time up to noon Monday.

This association has a band of 30 pieces made up from its own membership. A 3-hour rehearsal was conducted Thursday afternoon and concerts were planned at points along the way.

GUESTS OF C. OF C.
The banquet Thursday evening was furnished by the chamber of commerce. R. K. Wolter was general chairman of arrangements, Gerard Galpin had charge of the dinner and H. L. Post of the program. About 150 persons were served.

Mayor Goodland, in his greeting to the editors and their wives, told of the things Appleton has accomplished in the last few years, declaring that the amount of building here had averaged $2,000,000 a year and that more than 1,000 homes had been erected in five years. He also mentioned the new schools and churches which have been built and referred to the two bridge projects completed here recently. He said Appleton did not boast of being a manufacturing city but rather a spot of beauty and a city of homes, with "no shanty town, no foreign element and no colored persons."

Appleton's hospitality was deeply appreciated by the press association, said Mr. Kuyper, its president, in his talk. He praised the work of the chamber of commerce and the citizens who gave their support to things of civic value. He also mentioned the high influence which Lawrence college casts over the community.

NEW ADVERTISING IDEA
Some advice on the newer methods of selling advertising was given in the address of Wilbur W. Johnson. He described the Post-Crescent's system by which merchandising service rather than that of advertising is given the stores. Members of the paper's staff now prepare sales campaigns for the busy storekeeper who before devoted little time to this task. The advertising is carefully prepared instead of being hurried through. It pays the merchant better and the paper gets a larger appropriation in the end.

"Brownie" announced that a service car would accompany the new paper men on their trip. It would contain several good mechanics who would take care of all minor car troubles that might be experienced by anybody in the motorcade. He also picked on the "Poor Cuss," his traveling partner telling a few jokes on that individual.

Trombone numbers by Mr. Miller indicated his exceptional ability with that instrument. He demonstrated a wonderful range for an instrument of this kind and performed some antics in two stunt numbers that brought out his skill more fully. His services were loaned to the association by Frank Holton of Elkhorn, musical instrument manufacturer, who donated all the instruments used by the press band.

Everybody Welcome Friday at Valley Queen, 12 Corners.

Don't Forget — The Fair Store's Summer Clearance Starts Tomorrow.

LAWRENCE IS HAVING BIG FROSH ENROLLMENT

Enrollment at Lawrence college for the coming year will at least equal that of last year and probably exceed it, according to word received at the college office. Reservations being made at Brokaw hall, freshmen men's dormitory, are ahead of what they have been for a number of years at this time of the summer. The girls, however, do not seem to be coming in quite such great numbers as the boys, for while Russell Sage hall, the newest girls' dormitory, has had all its rooms reserved since last spring, there are still quite a number of available rooms in Ormsby hall, Peabody house and Smith house.

BUILDING PERMITS

Interlake Pulp and Paper company Tuesday obtained a building permit from the city for the purpose of erecting its new filtration plant. The building will be located next to the park on E. Johnson-st at the bridge and will have a frontage of 42 feet, depth of 235 feet and a height of 14 feet. The structure will be built of concrete, brick and steel. Orblison & Orblison are the architects, and the building will be put up under the direction of the paper company itself.

Other building permits issued by George E. Peotter, building inspector Tuesday include a residence and remodeling jobs. The projects are:

Dr. D. S. Runnels, 114 E. Franklin-st, addition to porch.
Anton Fredericks, 1006 N. State-st, remodel residence and garage.
Louis Herrmann, 614 N. Appleton-st, rebuild porch.
Earl F. Miller, Inc., residence at 1615 W. Rogers-ave.
Mrs. E. Koffend, 119 E. Randall-st, basement and porches.
Matt Crowe, 323-7 S. State-rd, two car garage.

Two building permits aggregating $1,500 in cost estimates were issued by the city building inspector Wednesday as follows:

Mrs. Charles Kruse, to move garage and build addition to residence at 1315 W. Commercial-st.
M. Lossekyon, to remodel residence at 815 N. Lemnaw-hd.

FOUR DROWN AT BULLOCK RESORT

Scene of Lake Tragedy Is Near Summer Home of Former Local Family

Friends of Mrs. Warren Bullock, a former Appleton resident, who have recently returned from northern Michigan have reported a tragedy in which four men were drowned near the Bullock summer cottage at West Bay Lake, Mich., north of Eagle River and Conover.

The accident occurred Thursday, July 30 when a small launch in which Mrs. Bullock and four men were riding was caught in the trough of a high wave and overturned. The four men drowned were John Hanson of Racine, George Hanson of Conover, William Welsh and William Johnson. They had been working for several days building a fireplace in the Bullock cottage, and as there is no automobile road for more than half a mile to the isolated place, where the cottage is located, it was necessary for Mrs. Bullock to take the men about half a mile in a launch to the point on the shore where their automobiles were standing after they had finished their day's work.

On Thursday, July 30 a storm was coming up on the lake, and the waves were quite high when the party set out in the launch late in the afternoon. The man steering allowed the boat to be caught broadside by the trough of a wave instead of keeping the prow point directly into the waves with the result that the launch was overturned.

Welsh and Johnson, unable to swim, sank immediately. Mrs. Bullock swam to an upturned snag and clung to it for safety. John Hanson and his nephew, George Hanson, started to swim to shore, but the former went down before he could reach safety. His nephew swam to shore, shed his clothes, and swam back to the rescue, but was probably taken with a cramp, as he too went down in ten feet of water. Mrs. Mrs. Bullock was rescued by a party of girls in a canoe whom she had hailed, and they rushed to the rescue of Hanson and his nephew but were too late to save them. All the bodies were recovered in a short time. John Hanson's body was found in 30 feet of water.

Mrs. Bullock and her two children were alone at the lake at the time of the tragedy. Both Mr. and Mrs. Bullock are Lawrence graduates and lived in Appleton for a time after their marriage. Mr. Bullock was connected with the Appleton Daily Post when he lived here. The Bullocks moved to Milwaukee from Appleton, and Mr. Bullock was city editor of the Milwaukee Sentinel for a number of years. Their present home is in New York City, where Mr. Bullock is employed with the American Pulp and Paper association.

WANT PROTECTION FOR TREES ON HIGHWAYS

Madison—The Wisconsin highway commission is taking steps to protect trees along the public roads from injury and destruction by utility companies.

It is unlawful for a utility company to injure or destroy shade trees, in the construction of a transmission line along a public highway, even with the consent of the owner of the adjoining land, without permission of the state highway commission. This was the substance of an opinion submitted to the commission by Franklin F. Bump, assistant attorney general. The company and all persons who molest the trees are liable to the penalties provided by law for each act or injury to the trees, the opinion added.

FEW COLLECTED BACK WAGES IN TRACTOR PLANT

W. C. Alexander, on Stand in State Hearing, Tells Firm's Difficulties

Menasha — In order to get money with which to pay their expenses, employees of the Uncle Sam Tractor company were compelled to turn bond salesmen and some of them never got their back pay, according to W. C. Alexander, who was on the witness stand the greater part of Thursday afternoon in the hearing before the securities division of the railroad commission at the city hall. Inquiry is being conducted concerning alleged sale of bonds beyond the amount of a state permit.

Mr. Robinson, at one time general manager and later president of the company, was one of the very few persons connected with the plant who got all he had coming and that was because his contract held the board of directors individually responsible for his salary in the event the company should be unable to pay him at any time, said Mr. Alexander.

As for G. D. Harris, also manager at one time, the witness was of the opinion Harris virtually was a pauper when he left the plant for Alexander said he gave him money with which to purchase his railroad transportation. Honor existed among the employees for when one succeeded in selling a bond he shared the money with others and their salary was credited with it. The employees were provided with bonds for this purpose, Mr. Alexander declared.

WORKED IN OFFICE

When he came to the plant Mr. Alexander was employed, he said, in the mechanical department but was not there long before he was taken into the office and during his connection with the company served at different times as purchasing agent, chief engineer, and director of sales. He was very close to both Mr. Robinson and Mr. Harris and said he did the work they did not do, acting as sort of assistant general manager. It was a difficult matter to dispose of the bonds during the latter days of the operation of the plant and Mr. Alexander said so far as he was concerned he found it much easier to secure funds through the sale of manufactured products. The company employed one or two regular bond salesmen who were at the head of that department, but the majority were of the "fly by night" type, as the witness put it, who were on the job for a few days and then disappeared. They were secured in numbers by the heads of the bond department and were not particular about misrepresenting matters generally.

Mr. Alexander was questioned at length as to his bond circular in which large deficits appeared as assets. He was asked if, from his close connection with the officers, he had any information as to how the circular was compiled and said so far as he knew it was prepared by Mr. Harris. He did not know who suggested it or who helped him. Part of the matter was taken from circulars that advertised stock sales.

QUESTIONED ABOUT CIRCULAR

Paragraph six of the circular which states "Thirty-two years in business makes us trustworthy" was shown the witness and he was asked who that referred to. He said he did not know. The information on the circular, he declared, was gathered by Mr. Harris. He did not know of Harris showing the data to the directors before the circulars were printed. Mr. Alexander was asked if he had any knowledge as to how the funds derived from the sale of bonds were applied and said in the payment of back salaries and for parts. He did not know where a lot of it did go, asked if any of it was used for the payment of interest on bonds he said it was.

In answer to a question as to whether any of the bonds that were officially given officers were actually turned over to the salesmen to sell, the witness said he did not know for sure but was told that some of the officers bonds were sold by the salesmen. He declared some of the officers and directors raised considerable money by advancing it to the company. Several chipped in on the payroll at different times and from what Mr. Harris told him the money was lost.

J. P. Hrubesky, a director and stockholder, and Andrew Christensen, a bondholder, testified during the morning session Thursday and were followed at the afternoon session by John Landig and Frank Landig, also bondholders. Mr. Sailor, who acted as secretary for the company for some time, was recalled late in the afternoon when Mr. Alexander left the stand.

J. G. Sailor, secretary of Uncle Sam Tractor company, was recalled at the opening of the morning session of the Tractor hearing. He was questioned for more than an hour concerning his connection with the plant and stated definitely that he knew of more than $50,000 worth of bonds having been sold. The railroad rate commission limited the sale to $50,000. He was succeeded on the stand by J. P. Hrubesky, a member of the board of directors.

The railroad commission expects to complete the hearing Friday afternoon or Saturday morning. There are several witnesses still to be called.

Give Hair Shampoo Of Oil And Air

The scalp is an excruciating organ, you know, and exudes impurities as the pores of the body, so that if it is not relieved of these impurities a scalp outlets become clogged. All these impurities as well as all dirt and dirt must be removed before the scalp can be perfectly healthy. And they are thoroughly removed with hot oil.

The first step in a really scientific shampoo is to brush the hair thoroughly. If the hair is very oily, comb instead of brushing it. Then have a specially medicated oil as hot as you can bear. Part the hair and rub the oil in briskly with a bit of cotton. Then this in until the scalp of the head is wet with the hot oil. Then an electric light of about 10 candle-power in a conical shade should be held over the head, which will open the pores and allow the oil to enter more freely for its cleaning work. If you have not this light, use hot towels.

About ten minutes of this and you can begin the scientific massage. Of course you know how to do this—beginning with the tips of your fingers at the base of your head, rotating in wheel-like motion to the crown, then turning back to the ears with the fingers motion going from the temples inward, and from the front of the head inward. Leave this oil on after the massage, if you possibly can, for twenty minutes.

Then shampoo it with your favorite shampoo.

TELEPHONE MESSAGE FROM MARY ALDEN PRESCOTT TO JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT

"I can not understand, John, why have not heard from you this morning. At what time are you coming to take me to the train?"

"You are not going to take the morning train? You are not sure we will go today? What do you mean?"

"I am all packed up, my bonnet and my outside wrap on a chair have already had Miss Anderson and my trunks to the station."

"Why should I wait for you to do that?"

"I thought I would relieve you of a much worry as possible. I must say, Jack, that you are very inconsiderate of me. You should have thought of me the first thing when you thought it might be impossible to take me to Atlantic City today."

"What is this? Is it business?"

"I must say, Jack, that I think you are paying altogether too much attention to your business. There is no reason why you could not have put whatever is keeping you here and taken me to Atlantic City today."

"Our mother and your wife are entitled to some of your time. Have you told Leslie that you are not coming today?"

"Oh, that is the reason, is it? Leslie has been called unexpectedly to Albany. Don't try to excuse her to me. She probably left Atlantic City because she knew you were taking over."

"I must say Leslie is more inconsiderate of me than even you are. What could have been more important to her than a visit with her husband and her husband's mother? She certainly should have waited for me. She knew I was anxious to go here."

"Don't speak so impatiently, John. I don't want to go to Atlantic City without you."

"I'm not sniveling, I'm crying because my only child for whom I have sacrificed so much has treated me with such great disrespect."

"Oh, I beg your pardon. I didn't know you wanted me to say goodbye. That you had a long distance call in. Most sons would think that might all until their mother had finished talking. All right, I'm used to being set aside for anything by you."

"No, I will not call you up again. You want to speak with me, you will find me here waiting for you. I will tell Miss Anderson to go down to the station and send the trunks back."

"All right, I'll leave them there for a little while if you think best."

"I suppose you understand that you have made me a great deal of trouble and set my nerves on edge and set my heart thumping. No one seems to realize, not even you, that the slightest excitement is very bad for my heart."

"Call me up when you have made our plans. I shall probably not be able to leave my apartment today until you wish to go to Atlantic City later. Goodbye, my son. I'll try to be too unhappy over your habitual neglect."

Adventures Of The Twins

MRS. PENGUIN AND THE SHEATH-BILLS

Peter Penguin was so full of stories that Doctor Bill and the Twins coaxed him to stay.

"You are such good company!" said Doctor Bill, "and I can't tell you when I've had such a good laugh."

"Do tell us another story," coaxed the Twins.

"Well," said Peter Penguin scratching his head with his wing, "let me see. Would you like to hear about the albatross and the jelly-fish or about the sheath-bill bird?"

"Which is the funniest one?" asked Nick.

"Alas!" sighed Peter Penguin. "Neither are so very funny. Indeed in the story about the albatross bird, the jelly-fish put so many stingers into him he was lame for six days and—"

"Then tell us the other story," said Nancy quickly.

"All right," said Peter Penguin. And he began:

"Once upon a time there was a penguin called Mrs. Penguin, and she scolded her husband something awful. If he said the sun was hot, she said it was cold, and if he said the sea was rough, she said it was smooth, and if he said the fishing was poor, she said it was fine."

"And so it went on, day in and day out until Mr. Penguin got a perfectly hen-pecked, I mean 'penguin-pecked' look."

"He lost his appetite and he swam so slowly he never won any races any more, and all the other penguins began to nudge each other and say, 'Just look at poor Mister Penguin! Isn't it a shame? His wife nags at him until he hasn't any spirit left!'"

"One day his wife said to him, 'Mister Penguin, I am going to lay some eggs. And while I'm sitting on them, I wish you would watch around and keep the sheath-bills away.' The sheath-bills are birds and enemies of the penguins."

"Sure I will," said her husband, because he was most obliging and did everything she asked him."

"So that day she laid an egg and the next day she laid an egg and the next and the next, until finally she had seven eggs in the nest."

"Then she sat on them."

"But she hadn't been sitting more than two days when two sheath-bills came along. They always go in pairs, sheath-bills do. Like most robbers they work in twos, and they were robbers all right. They were after her eggs."

"One sheath-bill began to peck at her head."

"But Mrs. Penguin never moved. She knew that if she did, the other sheath-bill would get behind her and eat her eggs."

"So she called, 'Mister Penguin! Mr. Penguin! Come here at once and help me!'"

"Yes, darling!" said he rushing up.

Household Hints

CHEESCLOTH ON BEEF

Before cooking beef, wipe it with a cheesecloth wrung out of cold water.

WILL REMOVE SPOTS

A cleaning solution that will remove ordinary spots from clothing is made by combining a half a pint each of grain alcohol and chloroform and one tablespoon of ammonia. Apply on flannel.

CLOTHES IN SHADE

Colored clothes should be hung wrong side out, in the shade. They should not stand long after they have been sprinkled.

IRONING STOCKINGS

Stockings should be ironed on the wrong side, with a warm, but not hot iron.

WASH IN COFFEE

The best way to wash black lace is in black coffee containing ammonia in the proportion of one table spoon to one cup of coffee.

SOAKING LACE

It is well to soak lace in soapy water to which ammonia or borax has been added before washing it. This lessens the dirt so less handling is required and hence less wear on the mesh.

TO CLEAN CHANDELIER

Clean brass chandeliers with hot vinegar and salt and rinse with soap-suds. Polish with an oiled cloth.

But suddenly he stopped and just looked on.

"Why don't you help me?" demanded Mrs. Penguin angrily.

"I was just thinking," said Mister Penguin. "Now you know how I feel all the time. No matter which way I move there you are after me. I think I'll let you alone and see what happens."

"Oh! Oh! Do help me," begged his wife. "I see how mean I have been. I'll let you alone after this. Honestly I will!"

So Mister Penguin chased the sheath-bills away and Mister Penguin hadn't either. His wife had learned a lesson."

"How do you know?" asked Nancy. "Because I'm Mister Penguin himself," said Peter with a wink.

WEAR SENSIBLE SHOES TO KEEP FEET PRETTY

BY MME. GEORGETTE

Civilization has refined the feminine face, but it has practically ruined the feminine foot.

The feet of a baby are beautifully shaped and the texture of the skin is as soft and lovely as that of the face. The feet of savages or of primitive races that have never worn any shoes except sandals are beautifully proportioned, as well as sturdy and strong. So we must blame the modern shoe for much of the foot's downfall.

FOR EVERYDAY WEAR

It is quite possible to get shoes that are smart and "sensible" at the same time, but if you must sacrifice either, sacrifice the smartness. Tight shoes are not only uncomfortable and cause you to walk ungracefully, but they put wrinkles in your face and do irreparable injury to your nervous system.

You will find it advisable to have at least two pairs of shoes for everyday wear, and to alternate them. As soon as the heels get run over, have them fixed immediately. Change your stockings daily and wash them after each wearing.

All exercises that strengthen the muscles of the feet are valuable. Walking on tiptoe builds up the muscular structure. As you are seated, do some work, think to exercise your feet by describing circles with it, and stretching it as far as you can in all directions from the ankle. As you lie in bed, stretch your feet so they make as nearly a straight line with your leg as possible. Stretch your toes, too. Draw the foot into as near a ball shape as you can, as if you were trying to pick up some object with the toes, then flatten them out as flat as possible.

Walking, dancing, and all outdoor exercises are beneficial to the feet if the feet are properly shod.

FASHION HINTS

UNUSUAL TRIMMINGS

Bits of mother-of-pearl are being used very successfully as trimmings for evening gowns in pastel tints.

SHADED EFFECTS LIKED

Many of the newest evening gowns are of shaded chiffon trimmed with beads that are also shaded.

LOVELY FOR DANCING

The black tulle frock with the handkerchief points that give a very irregular and fluttering line are very much in evidence at smart functions.

BEADED FRINGE SEEN

Fringe of white pearl beads is liked not only for delicate frocks, but for those of lead pencil blue, lipstick red and black.

Certain Gem For Nature Aged Women

There are certain stones which suit the older woman better than others. Amethysts are lovely for white-haired, blue-eyed women. Garnets are just suited to the woman who would otherwise perhaps be colorless. There is a warmth about garnets that makes them especially nice for the older woman of neutral coloring. Onyx has more life than jet. Aquamarines set in gold are also suitable for an older woman. As I have said, pearls are soft and becoming to most women, though there are some who will look better, perhaps, in the gray pearls which are so much worn at present. Last month I mentioned that of the women whose blond hair is touched with gray. The cloudy amber which has grown warm with age is the kind which belongs to this woman—Woman's Home Companion.

BY SISTER MARY

Breakfast—Baked pears, broiled salt fish, creamed potatoes, cornmeal and wheat muffins, milk, coffee.

Luncheon—Veal loaf, sliced tomatoes, peach snow balls, graham bread, milk, tea.

Dinner—Fruit cup, fried chicken, milk gravy mashed potatoes, corn fritters, head lettuce with chiffonade dressing, vanilla ice cream, buttered scotch cookies, whole wheat bread, milk, coffee.

Of course, a child under six years of age should not be served the corn fritters but the combination of chicken and fritters is so good that it's worth trying.

If the fruit cup is not served as the first course of this dinner chilled watermelon might be served in place of the ice cream.

CORN FRITTERS

One cup grated corn, 1 cup flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 tea spoon salt, 2 teaspoons sugar, 1 egg, 13 cup milk.

Combine and sift flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Beat yolk of egg until light with milk. Cut into dry ingredients. Stir in corn. Fold in the white of egg beaten until stiff and dry. Drop by spoonfuls into deep hot fat and fry until a golden brown on all sides. Drain on brown paper. The fat should be hot enough to brown an inch square of bread from the soft part of the loaf in 66 seconds.

PARENTS DON'T ROB CHILDREN OF PLAYMATES

BY CYNTHIA GREY

A girl of twelve and old for her years ran away from her home in New Jersey because she wasn't allowed to play with other children.

And her mother said that she could not understand why the girl was unhappy. Even though she would not allow her daughter to play with other children she often took her to vaudeville shows and on trips to town. She had always tried to be a companion to the girl.

But a child needs something more than companionship. She needs playmates. She needs the opportunity to mingle with other children in order that she may mingle with other adults when she is grown to maturity. Of course, this is just as true of boys as of girls.

All too soon we forget how to play, the years pass so quickly and responsibilities fall upon us. All the years of ambition, endeavor and success cannot for a moment match the value of childhood's fleeting play time. Once past, it is ir retrievable. Nothing can bring it back.

One of the greatest tragedies of life, I believe, is the spectacle of grown-ups chasing the elusive and illusory bubble of vanished youth. Old men cutting capers on the dance floor. Matrons dressing and grooming to appear outwardly as flappers while inwardly they are gnawed with foolish discontent and with realization of the futility of their quest.

An adult mind cannot meet that of a child on its own level. Under standing between age and youth can never be complete. Once we outgrow our childish fancies we lose sight of their charm in our new perspective.

There are not many children who will run away from home if denied the society of other children. They probably will run away from other responsibilities of maturity.

And so, mothers, be as much a companion to your children as your nature will permit. But don't take away their God-given moment of play.

Health Hints

STAY THIN, AVOID DIABETES

If you are thin at the age of 30 your chances of developing diabetes are but one-twentieth as great as they are if you are fat.

And at any age diabetes is ten times as common among people who are overweight as those who are underweight.

Many diabetics suffer from an unquenchable thirst, and drink enormous quantities of water. Statistics show that diabetes is increasing at an alarming rate. Many have diabetes who are unaware of it.

The symptoms are loss of weight, lack of strength, headache or skin eruptions.

No one symptom can be set down as an absolute indication of diabetes, however.

VISITORS MAKE GREAT USE OF WAUPACA LINKS

County Republicans Meet Tonight in Manawa to Pick Delegates for State Confab

Special to Post-Crescent
Waupaca—More than 1000 visitors are expected to play on the Waupaca golf course this season. The registration up to Aug. 1 shows over 600 guests and the first five days of August shows an increase of 20 per cent over the corresponding five days of last month. This is considered a wonderful record for a city the size of Waupaca, especially since the course is not yet 15 months old.

The winner of the July men's tournament for local members for low ball score, was won by Roy Holy with a score of 29, making 3 below par and establishing a new record for the course. Mrs. Donald Barnes of New York won the ladies prize for the same period.

Open tournaments are held every month and are for the public at large. The tournament for New London players only, to run the entire season is being contested quite sharply. The following are holding the first three places: Simon Jennings, first; J. J. Barnes, second; Theodore Pelzer and Hadden Maske, third.

Twenty-seven members of the local Masonic lodge drove to Wild Rose on Wednesday night to help other lodges confer the third degree upon three candidates. Those who accompanied the worshipful master J. Henry Christensen were: H. Simonson, C. W. Nelson, G. H. Nordvi, Clarence Rye, Ener Hanson, West Nileus, J. A. Dence, A. J. Pinkerton, Nels Brighman, E. D. Luther, Walter Wilcox, W. H. Foucar, W. C. Edwards, L. D. Glover, E. A. Peterson, E. W. Plummer, W. J. Roehr, John Fowles, B. H. Wilson, M. P. Nelson, T. W. Davidson, P. B. Anderson, Ned Testin, A. O. Devereau, L. D. Severt, and C. P. Stanley. Eight members of the Wausau lodge also attended with the Waupaca lodge. They were: Harry Potter, Fred Moody, Roy Reas, Bert Minton, M. G. Smith, A. E. Hutchinson, Frank Larkee and Harold Clark.

The Waupaca Tennis club is going great. In a recent match Wausau was held to a tie in a game that could not be finished on account of rain. Both Wausau and the locals won a single and a double when the balance of the match had to be postponed. Wausau has defeated both Oshkosh and Appleton. New London also went down to defeat before the locals. New London lost all the singles and two of the doubles. Saturday Waupaca will play Wausau at Wausau and Mosinee at Mosinee on Sunday. Results of the New London contest were as follows: Singles, E. Nelson defeated Putnam, 6-1, 6-4; Brown defeated Cutney, 6-2, 6-0; Barry defeated Albee, 6-4, 6-1; Holst defeated Vaughn, 6-1, 6-4. In the doubles, Holst and M. Nelson defeated Schultz and Macklein, 6-0, 6-1; Anderson and E. Nelson defeated Vaughn and Albee, 6-4, 6-3. Singles, Waupaca, 4; New London 0; Doubles, Waupaca, 2; New London 0.

Undersheriff Halbert Swenson purchased the residence of Alfred Olson, 625 Granite-st., on Wednesday. Mr. Swenson has been living the Browne residence on Main-st. since he left the sheriff residence on W. Union-st.

Waupaca baseball team will engage the Wild Rose organization on Sunday, Aug. 9 at the Penny Athletic park. Wild Rose has won 14 out of the 16 games played this season and is conceded to be one of the strongest semi-pro teams in central Wisconsin. The locals have lost but one game on their home grounds to date this year, so a close game may be expected. Jimmie Luther, an old favorite, will be in the local lineup.

RECEIVE EDITORS
The local residents and city visitors were to be treated to a double band concert on Friday morning when the Wisconsin Press association hit the city on its first stop of a four day tour. At 9 o'clock the Waupaca City band under the direction of T. W. Carroll was to play and at 10 o'clock the Press Association band of 30 pieces with "Sunny Jim" Miller as trombone soloist was to entertain.

Trini, famous Spanish dancer, returns from Spain to resume her bookings on the American vaudeville stage. While in Spain Trini was the guest of honor at a fiesta and bull fight given by the king of Spain at Seville. He gave her the wrist watch she is wearing.

After a short visit in the city the travelers were to go to the lakes for an outing.

Reports from Oshkosh declare that Carl Van Warden who wrestled Johnnie Meyer, middleweight champion here last week did not suffer a fractured rib, as was reported at the ring side after the match and during the next day while Van Warden was confined to his bed at the Delevan hotel. The exact cause of the pain that made him forfeit the match after 20 minutes of milling with the champion is now said to be a misplaced vertebra in the lower part of the spine. This has been replaced and the wrestler is recovering fast. Meyers will put up a wager that his training partner Sperling can take Van Warden's measure. A match of this description may be arranged after the Oshkosh man has fully recovered. Another possible match may include a woman wrestler.

Waupaca's Republican convention has been called for Friday night, Aug. 7, to be held at Manawa in the high school. The purpose of the meeting is to elect delegates to the state convention to be held at Oshkosh next week at which time a candidate is to be chosen to enter the field in the election of a senator to succeed the late Robert M. LaFollette. Manawa is the most centrally located village in the county, so a large attendance is expected.

Vego Jensen has returned to the city after an absence of several weeks in Oshkosh on business for Shambau and Kenyon.

The Masonic inter-county picnic will be held on Labor day Sept. 7 on the grounds of Camp Ighorn at Chain o' Lakes.

Shambau and Kenyon expect to ship several car loads of Guernsey cattle to New York by express soon.

D. W. Shield and H. J. Roads were in the city Thursday visiting old friends while enroute to St. Paul from Chicago.

VISUAL METHOD OF SMALL VALUE, EDUCATORS SAY

Movies Becoming Popular but Will Not Supplant Instructors

HOLLAND CALM AT UNREST IN EAST

Situation in Colonies Fails to Alarm Dutch Colonial Minister

By Associated Press
The Hague, Holland—People in Holland are paying a good deal of attention just now to reports of communist activities in their eastern possessions.

The latest news from the colonies is to the effect that closer supervision has been ordered throughout the East Indian archipelago over all political gatherings, which no young persons under 18 years of age are allowed to attend, 18 being considered a ripe age, politically, in the tropics.

M. S. DeGraaff, the Dutch minister of colonies, seems, however, to view the position without alarm. In a memorial to the chamber on the colonial budget he deprecated reports that the native masses are discontented and ready to adopt a policy of non-cooperation. Whatever restrictive action has been taken, he explained, was not aimed at the suppression of communism as a creed, but solely in the interests of the preservation of law and order.

Eastern communism, the minister added, was a problem by itself and could not be judged by European standards. He was satisfied that natives who called themselves communists knew really little or nothing of communist doctrines. Incitement to revolution would, of course, not be tolerated, the minister declared.

LONG, LONG AGO:---

(SOUNDS LIKE A STORY DOESN'T IT?)

And it is. It is the story of how Voecks Bros. have built that enviable reputation of having the finest meats obtainable.

A long time ago, better than a quarter of century back, Voecks Bros. opened their first market. From that day up to the present time, they allowed only the very best of meat to leave their shop.

That is the story of how Voecks Bros. acquired this reputation.

America's Oldest and Finest Piano

The FLAPPER WIFE

by Beatrice Burton © 1925 NEA SERVICE, INC.

Stanley was waiting on the edge of the curb when she drove up beside him. "Get in a minute," she said. "I want to talk to you . . . or rather, I want to ask you something." Were you out driving with Myra Gail yesterday afternoon? . . . Now answer me, quick! Just like that! Yes, or no?

Stan shook his head. But his cheeks were mantled with a dull red flush. Gloria was sure that he was not going to tell her the truth. "Of course, I wasn't," he said. "Let's see, where was I yesterday afternoon? Nowhere in particular, I guess . . ."

He broke off and took her hands in their driving gloves in his. He smiled down into her clear, amber eyes. "What a jealous little thing you are!" he said. "I wonder what you'd be like if you were married to me. Would you be jealous then?" "Would I?" Gloria breathed. Stan's touch, even through her gloves, was comforting. "I'd camp on your trail . . . I'd be so jealous! I wouldn't let another woman look at you or speak to you, even!" "Do you feel that way about Dick?" Wayburn asked. He was vastly amused by her fury. "No, I can't imagine being jealous of Dick. I wish I were," Gloria said. She did honestly wish that she were jealous of Dick . . . that she cared for him wildly and longingly, as she was sure she loved Stanley Wayburn.

It must be wonderful to marry the man you loved! To be not only his sweetheart, but his wife, his pal and his partner . . . to have all of him, his moods, his temper, his worries, as well as his love!

To have the right to smooth away the tired lines around his eyes with your finger-tips—to be a haven of rest and peace for him at the end of his long work day!

For Gloria could see that this was the way to be a wife, the kind of wife she had never been to Dick. Poor Dick! She had given him anything but rest and peace. "It's getting dark," Stan said abruptly. But Gloria turned her head away from him.

"Here's what I wanted to give you," she said wily. She handed him the bottle of brandy. "I won't be playing cards."

"Some prize, I'll remark!" Stan said with enthusiasm. He took her face between his hands and kissed her savagely, again and again.

"Don't!" Gloria cried. "You mustn't kiss me! We're forgetting I'm married!"

"Good Lord, how I want you!" he muttered in a thick voice. And then he was gone.

Gloria rubbed her bruised lips with her handkerchief. "What did Stan mean when he said he wanted her? That he loved her? Surely, he must! . . . If he didn't would he kiss her that way?"

And with the memory of those kisses on her mouth, Gloria went up to Dick's office.

In his private office Dick was dictating to Miss Briggs. The door stood open.

Gloria didn't go in at once. She tiptoed over to the mirror that hung above Miss Briggs' desk and looked at herself in it. She wondered if Stan had missed her hair or knocked her hat awry when he kissed her.

She powdered her little nose carefully and drew a moistened finger tip along her eyebrows.

Then, all at once, Gloria became aware of Miss Briggs talking in a voice that was strangely loud for her.

"Please let me telephone for a taxicab to take you home," she was pleading with Dick.

"No, no, my wife's coming down for me in her car," Dick answered shortly. His voice was muffled. "I'm just dizzy . . . be all right in a second."

Gloria went softly to the door between the two rooms, and looked into Dick's office. He was bent forward over his desk, with his head on his folded arms. Beside him stood Miss Briggs. One of her hands was almost on his shoulder. But she did not quite touch it.

Even as Gloria watched her, she drew it away and picked up a pencil. Then she backed away from Dick.

"Look here, Mr. Gregory," she said sharply. "It's none of my business, I suppose. But have you had a doctor? You know, you've had three of these spells in a month . . ."

Dick raised his head. His eyes were dark and circled with pain. "Oh, don't keep talking, Susy," he growled. "My head's thumping like a trip hammer. . . ."

Susy! So that was what he called her when they were alone, was it?—Gloria thought. Not even Susan, but Susy! The sedate Miss Briggs!

And she had all but patted Dick's shoulder, when she had hovered over him a moment ago! Was she in love with him . . . this "day-time wife" of his?

Probably she was, Gloria decided. A tiny pinprick of suspicion stabbed her. And then it was gone almost before she felt it.

For Dick was a one-woman man, Gloria knew. And she was, for him, the One Woman!

Why worry about Miss Briggs, when Gloria was sure that Dick wouldn't have looked at a prize-beauty when she, herself, was in sight?

Sometimes Gloria wished that he would look more often at other women. It would give her more freedom.

She pushed the door wide open with her foot, and walked into the room. The minute Dick saw her face changed. His eyes lighted up and he grinned.

"Hello, old lady," he said. Gloria did not so much as glance at Miss Briggs. She walked coolly past her into Dick's waiting arms. As he bent his lips down to hers, Gloria heard the secretary closing the door behind her.

Secretly, she smiled. She would show Miss Briggs how little any woman meant in Dick's life except herself, Gloria!

Some women might have to worry about their husband's stenographers, but not she! That was for unattractive women, middle-aged women, not for Gloria Gregory, with her face that was like a pansy!

And yet . . . Dick had called Miss Briggs "Susy" . . . intimately, almost as if she had been his wife. The memory was most disquieting to Gloria. While she was not actually jealous of Dick, she didn't want him to care the least little bit for anybody else . . . and especially for Miss Briggs, who perhaps loved him!

NEVADA DIVORCE HOLDS GOOD IN PHILIPPINES

Manila—The question of the validity of the Philippine Islands of a decree of divorce obtained in a court in the United States, was decided in the affirmative today by Judge George Harvey of the court of first instance.

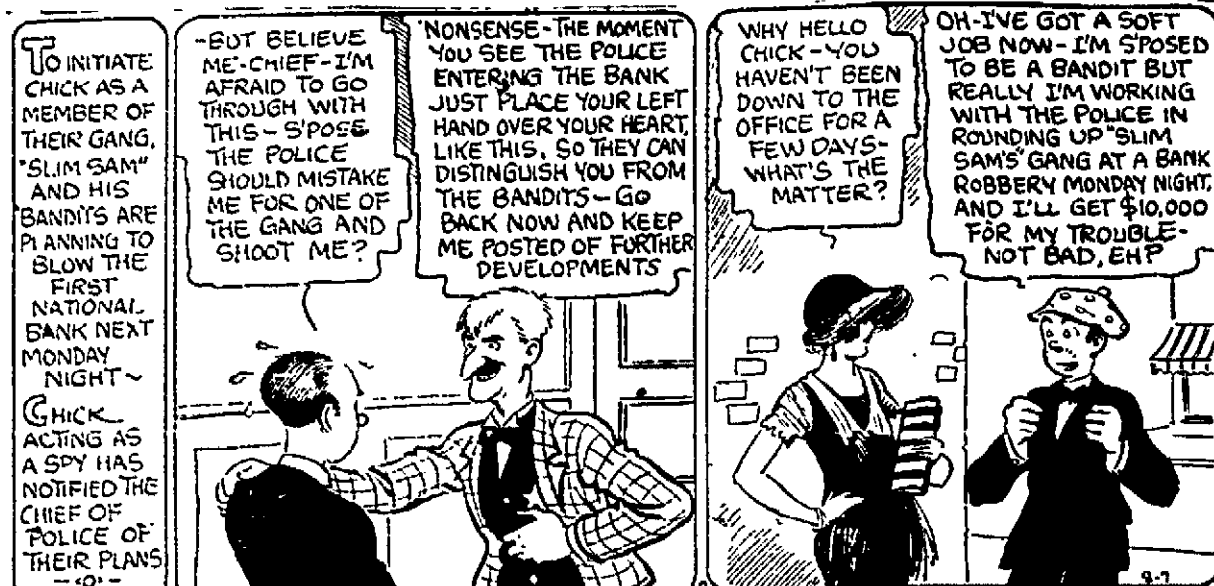

Mrs. Jose Ventura of Manila obtained a decree of divorce from her husband in the state of Nevada in March 1924, and upon her return to Manila applied to the court for authority to dispose of certain property.

MOVE BUFFALO
TO NEW RANGES
IN ARCTIC LANDTwo Thousand Animals Taken 700 Miles in Great Experiment

Edmonton, Alta.—The buffalo are on the move again!

The footloose wanderers of the purple sage are roaming north—quitting the limitless reaches of the western prairie for the cool, shadowy lanes of the Canadian woods.

Two thousand of them—powerful, untamed, defiant—are being taken 700 miles north of their natural habitat in one of the greatest experiments with wild life ever performed.

At Wainwright, Alberta, the Canadian government maintains a buffalo park. These were brought from Montana, purchased when the American government found its own ranges fully stocked.

Now the Wainwright range is full. And so the government is establishing a new range, at Fort Smith, far up in the northwest territory—almost in the shadow of the arctic circle.

Surplus animals from the Wainwright range are being "transplanted" to this northern field.

It is a thrilling process. For the buffalo do not go by train and boat, and the cowboys whose job it is to care for them on the way have their hands full.

The excitement starts at Wainwright. Each week the cowboys ride out on the range and "cut out" a group of 200 of the obstreperous animals. The buffalo promptly stampede, and lay down of hard riding and much breaking of life and limb the cowboys get them headed for the "squeeze."

This "squeeze" is a long, narrow enclosure with a fence at the far end. Here each buffalo is branded with a "W," while delighted tourists look on at scenes more thrilling than any roundup.

Then the cowboys guide their charges onto specially built steel rail cars on the Canadian National railway, and the buffalo are taken to Edmonton. Here the cars are switched to the provincially owned Albert and Great Waterways Railway and taken 300 miles to Fort McMurray, on the wild Athabasca river.

Specialty-decked scows each capable of holding 100 buffalo, are brought to the docks and the animals herded aboard. Then, pushed by a puffing steamboat, the last leg of the journey begins.

At last the scows are broad ashore at Fort Smith, and the cowboys' troubles end. The gates are opened; the men, with shouts and much waving of arms, start the buffalo moving, and presently the herds dash ashore, out into the woods—to freedom.

Drunk Fined
Menasha—Theodore Locien of Appleton was before Judge F. J. Budd today on the charge of intoxication. He was fined $5 and costs.

Defer Meeting
No meeting of the county health committee will be held in August, according to Miss Marie Klein, county nurse. The meeting was to be held Friday afternoon. Miss Klein has been away on her vacation and a short illness also has kept her from preparing a report.

BACHMAN VOTES AGAINST OIL GIFTS TO "U"

Appleton Regent Is Commended by Labor for His Stand on Donations

Fred E. Bachman, member of the board of regents of the University of Wisconsin, returned from a board session at Madison Wednesday feeling satisfied with the regents' adoption of a policy on accepting donations to the university from the Rockefeller foundation and similar institutions.

He was one of the original five members who voted against accepting a gift of $12,000 from the general education board, a Rockefeller foundation, for research work at the university. The action was taken at that time when President E. A. Birge of the university broke a 5 to 5 tie by voting for the donation.

His attitude was commended by the State Federation of Labor at its recent convention at Lake Geneva which Mr. Bachman attended as a delegate. The federation denounced the majority of the regents and urged the board adopt a policy of rejecting in the future all similar gifts. Mr. Bachman took part in the discussion Wednesday that led to adoption of such a policy by a 9 to 6 vote.

SEEK CONTROL
"Many of the private institutions of learning are controlled by men of wealth," he declared Thursday. "And some of the wealthy men are now endeavoring to obtain control of state institutions. This $12,000 donation, practically insignificant for research purposes, was merely intended as a wedge."

"I believe in keeping moneyed men out of control of the state institutions of learning. Let the people have control of their own schools. It is true that the costs of operating the university are a little heavier without the support of private wealth, but the people, I am certain, will not complain. That they are in favor of higher education is shown in the way they stormed the legislature last winter with requests for support of the big university appropriation bill. I am interpreting the ranks of labor correctly when I say they are for higher education."

It was understood that the Rockefeller foundation intended to follow up the $12,000 gift with a $500,000 endowment to the new medical school in case the smaller gift was accepted. The action of the board precludes the acceptance of the larger fund.

President Birge, who is permitted to vote in cases of tie vote, declared that if he were the new president-elect and the board of regents reversed its decision after accepting such a gift, he would resign immediately. The $12,000 gift was allowed to stand.

Regent Daniel H. Grady, Portage, said that he doubted if the regents had a moral right to accept a gift from the general education board in view of the fact that the Standard Oil Co. had spent $2,750 for lobbyists at the recent session of the legislature.

ALLEGED NEOPIT MAN DROVE WHILE DRUNK

Green Bay—Albert Golleke of Neopit, Wis., was arraigned in municipal court Tuesday afternoon on a state warrant charging him with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He waived the reading of the warrant and complaint, pleaded not guilty and was released under bonds of $300. When the case was adjourned until Aug. 11.

The arrests followed an automobile accident Monday night, when Golleke's car crashed into one driven by Frank Westowski of Pulaski on highway 16 about two miles east of Kropf's dance hall. Golleke was accompanied by his four children, and a companion Leo Couillard, his wife having alighted from the car at Kropf's, refusing to accompany him further because of his drunken condition.

The rear of the car was filled with jugs, bottles, sugar, a quantity of yeast and bottles of what is said to be Bourbon extract. County police declare. These Couillard attempted to hide by throwing them into the bushes. They were recovered by motorcycle officer, Eddie Le Mere, and after Couillard attempted to battle the officer, he was placed under arrest. He is being held on a drunk and disorderly charge.

BIG CARGO OF ALCOHOL IS SEIZED AT KENOSHA

Kenosha—Otto Pomlun, operator of the Kilbourn Inn on highway 57, six miles south of Milwaukee, was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Stanley Rauen and Chester Bostetter, and booked for speeding while the deputies got a warrant to search his car. In it they found 30 gallons of alcohol, which Pomlun admitted he was taking to his place from Chicago. On his plea of not guilty his case was adjourned until Aug. 11 and he was placed under bonds of $1,000.

NEW P. O. RULES CONCERN BOOKS

Department Is Strict as to Where Third Class Rates May Apply

An announcement from the postal department at Washington, D. C., in regard to what kind of enclosures may be sent in parcel post packages containing books and catalogs, has been received at Appleton postoffice. Books and catalogs which have 24 or more pages including covers are classified as third class mail, and if mailed in packages not exceeding eight ounces in weight, are subjected to postage at the special third class rate of one cent for each two ounces or fraction of two ounces. Printed circulars, cards, folders and other miscellaneous printed matter weighing up to and including eight ounces are included in third class mail, but have the regular third class postage rate of one and one-half cents for each two ounces or fraction of two ounces.

Enclosures permitted with books and catalogs are:

A reply envelope or reply post card, provided only such matter appears on the envelope or post card which obviously relates directly and exclusively to the book or catalog.

A single order form bearing only such matter as pertains to the book or catalog.

A loose printed circular consisting of a single sheet not larger than the size of a page of the book or catalog it accompanies, provided it relates exclusively to the book or catalog, and that such relation is apparent at a glance. If this is in the form of a circular letter it may not be in the nature of a general communication, nor contain additional offers or refer to extraneous matters, but must pertain directly to the book or catalog.

If an enclosure with a book or catalog does not conform to any of these conditions the whole package will be subjected to the regular third class mailing rate of one and one-half cents for each two ounces or fraction thereof.

If a circular or other printed matter is securely attached to a book or catalog by means of pasting, stitching or stapling, so that it will form an integral part of the book or catalog, it will not affect the mailability of the package at the special rate of one cent for each two ounces or fraction thereof. In case the attached sheet is larger than the regular pages of the book or catalog, it should be folded to approximately the size of the page. When samples of cloth are attached or enclosed, the whole package is subjected to the regular third class rate of one and one-half cents for each two ounces or fraction thereof.

Passed Arterial Sign
Reversing the order of "Stop, Look and Listen." G. A. Braemer of Black Creek looked, but he failed to stop, and that is why a second later he listened. He heard the whistle of Carl Radtke, motorcycle officer, and the reprimand that he had just violated the city arterial highway ordinance. The arrest was made Wednesday at N. Oneida-st and Wisconsin-ave. The motorist paid the usual fine of $1 plus costs of $2.20.

Sonny Wears 'Em Long; Daddy Dons Short Ones

Now little Jimmy sports long trousers just like daddy and big brother wear. Mother used to dress her small son in starched short trousers and little middy blouses with big ties. The little middy blouses are still quite popular but sonny won't wear starched trousers since he sees a little playmate with grey flannel "ice cream" pants. Nothing will do but mother has to buy him a pair of those nice long trousers.

Then father, who craves to look young, dons short knickers, which he calls "golf" pants and promenades the beach and avenue with Jimmy, who is "all dolled up" in his long flannels. Quite a picture they make as they walk together, Jimmy trying to look like a man and father endeavoring to look and act young. Jimmy has a feeling that all the other little boys envy him, but soon nearly all of them may have the long trousers and feel quite grown up.

Little four piece suits with knicker pants, long trousers and vest and coat are introduced in darker colors for fall and winter and all the little boys are able to keep the "grownup" feeling even in the winter time. Corduroy and dark blue flannel and serge trousers also will be popular. Wide leather belts of all colors and sport belts are just the thing to go with the new flannels. Many colored and unique patterns are used for golf sweaters, which prove quite popular with the little folk. Striped ties and dotted ties, plain ties and elaborate ties also catch the eye of little Jimmy.

Children from the age of three and up are starting to wear the little suits. Men's fashion authorities believe that the long trousers will be adopted as a regular part of the little boy's wardrobe. Another popular outfit for the very small boy is a little suit made of white duck. Long trousers feature this and a middy blouse with it is trimmed with navy braid and there is a big colored tie. Just as Jimmy wants to be a big man before he is four years old, little sister must become a "dapper," so she is dressed in quaint little frocks, has a French bob and shingle, roller stockings and sometimes even begs mother for a compact so she can powder her nose like her flapper sister. Fanny does. Her little dresses are usually made of crisp of soft ma-

JUNIOR SCHOOL JANITORS HIRED

Richard Reffke and Joseph Bellin Get Jobs—McKinley Name Picked

After working for a month on no less than 70 applications, the janitors and supplies committee of the board of education finally decided to recommend Richard Reffke, 228 E. Circle-st. and Joseph Bellin, 828 W. Franklin-st. for janitors of the new Roosevelt and Wilson high schools, respectively. The recommendations were presented Wednesday afternoon to the high school board at a special meeting in the office of Superintendent B. J. Rohan at the Lincoln school building, and the two men received and have the little pants that show beneath the hemline of harders. Bright colors and figured materials are used extensively to make chic dresses for little sister. Crepes, jersey, serges, satins and velvets will probably be used for children's dresses this winter. The party dresses continue to be popular and are made for girls from 3 to 14 years. The lines are tailored and frequently the much ruffled dress is seen.

commended were engaged as the new janitors. Questionnaires were sent out to all 70 applicants and at least five references were required of them.

The name McKinley school was formally adopted for the Fourth ward school where both a grade school and a junior high school unit will be maintained. The name McKinley has been under consideration for some time and the board Wednesday voted to adopt it.

Corridor floors of the new junior schools will be painted with cement paint. The classroom floors will be waxed. A scrubbing machine has been ordered and will be used to keep the classroom floors clean. This machine, which will be used for both waxing and scrubbing, will cover a great deal of territory and save labor. No regular board meeting will be held in August, it was decided.

JAPS SPEED U. S. ENVOY HOMEWARD

Body of Late Ambassador Borne on Last Journey Aboard Cruiser

Tokyo — A Japanese cruiser, the Tama, Thursday is bearing the body of the late Edgar A. Banehart, ambassador from the United States, back to America.

The ambassador died at Kariuzawa on July 28. Mourned by the Japanese as a true friend of peace and as one who worked to maintain the friendliest of relations between the two governments, every honor was accorded by the government officials before the body was started on its last homeward journey. The streets from Hibiyu park to Tokyo station were lined with artillery and thousands of Japanese stood up with bare heads silently paying respect to the memory of the dead ambassador.

Wreaths from the emperor and the prince regent were placed on each end of the coffin.

As the casket moved on a launch toward a Japanese warship, the Tama, a salute was fired by warcraft in the harbor.
